EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

EVERY independent Republican in Pennsylvania is cordially supporting Col. Quay.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S views on the civil service are all right; his actions are what we complain about.

PRESIDENT ROBERTS testimony in the railroad cases was sufficient upon which to found a strong case for the State.

COLLEGE students seem to be indulging in even more frolic that usual this year, and there is trouble in almost all of the prominent institutions of that kind.

TEXAS people may all be fighters, but when an 18-year-old boy can rob a stage coach loaded with passengers the average Texas bravery would appear to need bracing up.

CANON FARRAR, one of the very great ministers of the world, living in England, is now visiting in this country and talks in a complimentary manner of American education.

HOW THE really honest Democrats are thanking their good fortune that the crops are bountiful! It may serve as a means to counterbalance the fearful blunders of Democratic leaders.

THE cry "bloody shirt" will not prevent the Republicans telling the truth. It is not reviving the issues of the war to describe the actual condition of affairs now prevailing in the South.

MR. HILL, Democratic candidate for Governor in New York State, has presented a crayon portrait of himself to a Buffalo Democratic club. A "bust" of Hill will be completed on the first Tuesday in November.

OFFICE-SEEKERS swarm about the White House and the Departments now a days like butterflies around a mud puddle. They are as plentiful in Washington now as at any time since Mr. Cleveland's inauguration.

THE reduction in the public debt last month amounted to nearly thirteen million dollars. At the rate the National debt is now being paid a girl baby born to-day will not reach a marriagable age before the debt will have been entirely extinguished.

THE shocking explosion at Pittsburg shows great carelessness and downright criminal negligence. One portion of the battery of boilers was found to be eaten down to the thirty-second of an inch in thickness—a mere flimsy shell between life and death. A better kind of compulsory inspection of boilers is sadly needed in Pittsburg.

A DECISION, important to the traveling and boarding public, has just been delivered in the Iowa Supreme Court. The rule is made that a hotel-keeper who receives guests while knowing that there is a contagious disease in his house is liable for damages to any guest who may unfortunately contract the disease while under his roof.

IT is authoritatively announced that the President is dissatisfied with Collector Hedden and Surveyor Beattie, of the New York Custom-house. When the President is dissatisfied with a Republican officeholder he displays great promptness in removing the unsatisfactory official, but when it is the Democratic ox that does the goring the case is different.

WITH the opening of the political battle in New York the closing weeks of the Ohio struggle approach. This is probably the last year that this situation will be witnessed, as the adoption of the constitutional amendments this month changing the time of election in Ohio from October to November is generally conceded. The campaign has been less exciting than usual in that State. It seemed to be admitted at the start that this was not a year for brass bands and torchlight processions, and each party has accordingly directed its efforts toward organization. This work having been completed, the remaining two weeks before the election will be devoted to arousing the voters to the importance of the issues at stake.

Criminal Appointments.

We dare our contemporary to point out any (appointments) that are "ridiculous" or a single one, except that fellow Judd—who got his appointment on the recommendation of Republicans, and who was put out as soon as the President discovered his real character—that are "low criminals."—Watchman.

A due regard to grammatical accuracy would have led our Democratic contemporary to use the words "that is a low criminal," instead of "that are low criminals," But, never mind that; our purpose is to point out these low criminals appointed by Cleveland, which we do with regret that we should be compelled to say such things of an American President.

Among his first official acts was the appointment of Eugene Higgins to the important office of Appointment Clerk of the Treasury. The people believed that the President was imposed upon and they hoped that upon being made acquainted with the character and methods of Higgins, he would promptly remove him.

Seven months have expired since it was brought to the attention of President Cleveland that Higgins was a pothouse politician, a professional gambler, a ballot box stuffer, the friend and protector of repeaters, notorious burglars and other criminals, and Higgins still holds on to the office in which he can do more to negative the enforcement of the Civil Service laws than any other officer in the Government service—still holds on in face of the fact that he brazenly flaunts his contempt for the Civil Service enactments full in the face of the President and the people.

John Conolly, Statistical Agent of the Department of Agriculture for the State of Ohio, appointed upon the recommendation of Gilbert Barger, Chairman of the Democratic Committee of that State. Conolly was indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced to nine months imprisonment for theft.

Jerry Mallory, appointed custodian of the new Post Office buildings at Cleveland, Ohio, served a full term in the work house for theft.

Ferdinand Witte, assistant custodian of Public buildings at Cleveland, Ohio, served three years in Sing Sing, for obtaining $5,000 by false pretenses, and another year in Hamilton County, Ohio, jail for a similar offense.

Gus. O'Connor, appointed an officer of customs at Cleveland, Ohio. Served three years in the Ohio State Prison for theft.

"Potch" Moran, also appointed a custom officer at Cleveland, Ohio, was indicted for murder, failed of conviction because the chief witness against him absented himself from the trial and could not be found.

I. L. Meade, appointed Postmaster at Hazlehurst, Copiah county, Miss., by President Cleveland, with full knowledge of the fact that he presided at the meeting held to endorse the Copiah murders. A general protest on the part of the Republican press compelled the President to revoke Meade's appointment. Meade has since then taken pleasure in explaining that in his estimation "those who committed the Copiah murders were quite as good as those who profited by them."

Mr. Grabbs' upon the recommendation of first Comptroller of the Treasury, Durham, appointed Supervisor of the Federal buildings at Frankford, Kentucky, against the protest of Senator Blackburn, Governor Knatt and Congressman Breckinbridge. Mr. Grubb has four indictments hanging over him in the criminal court of Boyle county, Kentucky.

Theodore Fryer, of Buffalo, New York, an old personal friend of President Cleveland, appointed to a clerkship in the Treasury Department; his qualification a five years sentence to the State Prison at Auburn, New York, for forgery, and a four years term in the State Prison of Minnesota, for forgery.

Dr. Hire, appointed examining surgeon at New Orleans, was under indictment for embezzlement, and this list might be swelled by many cases almost as notorious.

Is the Watchman satisfied?

CONRAD B. DAY, the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, was such a bitter copperhead during the war that he quarreled openly with many of his relatives in Philadelphia. In the light of the facts Chairman Hensel ought to pass the word among his Democratic organs to discontinue their falsehoods about the military record of Col. Quay, who won a Colonelcy in the Union army.

Sherman Still at It.

The Republican meeting held in Cincinnati was the most remarkable manifestation of popular interest ever witnessed there. It exceeded in numbers the Blaine meeting of last year. Thousands could not enter the great Music Hall in which it was held. The public desire was to hear Senator John Sherman discuss the new form of inequality caused by the South frauds. He stuck to his text and among other things said:

"What did Judge Hoadly say when he was called upon to face this great indictment of the Democratic party? He said Sherman was waving the "bloody shirt!" The only "bloody shirt" I waved was the declaration I now repeat—that the Democratic party of the South has disfranchised by fraud and violence the whole population of the whole Southern States in effect; and besides that has established a system of ostracism and terror by which these colored and white Republican voters dare not hold their heads up amongst them. Where was the "bloody shirt" in that? I don't see it. But Governor Hoadly went on, and he waved the "bloody shirt." He commenced by saying that I had called attention—which I had not—to the bloody graves scattered all over the South, and the rebel prison-pens which he graphically described, and all that sort of thing. He said I tried to call attention to these things only to avoid a discussion of the temperance question.

When I meet in argument, if my opponent don't meet me fairly and squarely, I'll pull him up to the bull-ring and hold him there if I can. [Applause]. I say now that no Democrat in Hamilton county dare take issue on this question. These people have been deprived of their rights. And that is not all. They have not only been deprived of their rights, but these men, Democrats of the South, are now exercising political power based upon the six millions of colored people scattered over the South. There are thirty-eight members of Congress and thirty-eight electoral votes assigned under the Constitution of these six millions of colored people in the South; but they manage matters there so that these colored people have no right to vote. They are deprived of their votes, and then these Southern Democrats vote all this vast political power themselves; and by that means alone Grover Cleveland is now President of the United States [applause]; and but for this enormous crime James G. Blaine would now be our President [renewed applause] and John A. Logan would be our Vice President. What answer do they make to this indictment? The "bloody shirt."

Tornadoes.

It is said that Lieut. John P. Finley, of the Signal Corps, has made the subject of tornadoes a study for eight years past and it is believed that the information respecting the approach of such storms will soon be sufficiently well known to enable the weather department to warn the people living in their track. We really do not believe, however, that all the research and study will enable such knowledge to be certainly known. We believe that as long as the world lasts the wind will continue to blow where it "listeth" and the most weather wise will not be able to correctly predict its course in advance. It is very certain that the weather bureau has recently been making some very wild forecasts of the weather and on Monday, when the daily papers contained a long telegram concerning Lieut. Finley's knowledge they also contained a telegram about a destructive tornado which visited Bergen county, New Jersey, only 22 miles from New York City. This tornado demolished a $5,000 school house, a church, a hotel, several houses and injured one lady so seriously that she may die. Among the items of information on the subject given by Lieut. Finley is that—

"The visits of the tornado are commonly between the hours of 2 and 6 in the afternoon. Its home is an area which includes the whole of Iowa, all of Missouri except the southeastern corner, the northern corner of Arkansas, the northeastern part of Indian Territory, eastern Kansas, eastern Nebraska, southern Minnesota, southern Wisconsin, and western Illinois. Here its season extends from April to August inclusive. It is a frequent visitor to two other regions. One is a strip along the Gulf and south Atlantic coast, which takes in the central portions of Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina, with terminal in Mississippi and North Carolina, over which its devastations are confined to the months of January, February, and March. The other includes a portion of southern and central Ohio, a large part of Pennsylvania, a small area in Maryland, a strip across New York, and a corner each of Massachusetts and Connecticut, where it is in season only during the months of August and September."

Now, we notice that the tornado in question occurred at 1.15 o'clock, an earlier hour than the earliest given by Lieut. Finley; it occurred in New Jersey, which is not mentioned in Lieut. Finley's district, and it occurred in October, whereas Mr. Finley mentions only August and September. We guess that Mr. Finley will do well to devote another eight years' to a study of the subject to discover how little he knows.

What President Roberts Says.

Mr. George B. Roberts, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, told his story on Friday last before Examiner Weiss in the equity suit to restrain the transfer of the Beech Creek and South Pennsylvania Railroads. He was the most important witness. We quote a small part of his testimony: "In August last I met Mr. William H. Vanderbilt at Saratoga. He told me he was anxious to sell out his interest in Pennsylvania railroads, and particularly wished to withdraw from the South Pennsylvania scheme. He wanted to know whether the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was willing to negotiate with him. I replied that the time was approaching when something should be done to inaugurate a change in the trunk line business, and I think he said he would send his son-in-law to see me."

"What corporation did Mr. Vanderbilt desire to relinquish?" interrupted Mr. Cassidy.

"Mr. Vanderbilt had the Reading, Beech Creek, South Pennsylvania, Youghiogheny lines. Mr. Vanderbilt did not want to relinquish his interest in these properties, but desired to turn over their management to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. I was next visited in March, 1885, by General Magee in reference to the Beech Creek road, when I told him that I thought he had better turn over the road to our interest. He was willing to do so if his interests in Pine Creek could be protected, and I said that I thought that could be arranged. I added that it would be better for the Pennsylvania Railroad if it took the South Pennsylvania in connection with the Beech Creek. In April he telegraphed me from New York that he did not think an understanding could be reached on that basis, and desired to withdraw. I met Mr. Depew after his election as President of the New York Central, and he talked to me of the necessity of his road getting control of the West Shore."

"Unfortunate Infirmities."

The Democracy is coining new phrases for use in the business of sweeping the Federal service clear of Republican officials, some of which are likely to prove very troublesome before it is done with them. The latest of this coinage comes from Mr. Cleveland's partisan postmaster of Baltimore. Postmaster Veazey found an obstruction in his office in the shape of a faithful old Union soldier who was crippled during the war, and was properly provided for by a Republican government in a clerkship whose duties he could perfom without detriment to the public service. Mr. Veazey wanted the crippled soldier's place for one of the hungry crowd that was pressing upon him; but did not quite like to brave the consequences of a straight-out removal. Colonel Ming was well known in Baltimore; had passed the civil service examination and was actively and faithfully discharging his duties. But his presence was an offence to Mr. Cleveland's postmaster and his place was wanted, and where there is not a straight path, there is often a crooked one, and Mr. Veazey found it. He removed the crippled soldier from his desk, where he could sit and do his work; then he reduced his salary and put him upon night work which compelled him to stand on his wounded leg, inflicting on him severe pain. Having got his man where he wanted him, Postmaster Veazey sent him a demand for his resignation, saying: "I regret the necessity for calling your attention to the fact that your unfortunate infirmity renders you utterly incapable of performing your duties, &c."

These "unfortunate infirmities" received while battling honorably for the Union render men unfit for employment under the Democratic administration.

THE Democratic papers in New York are disposed to make merry over the refusal of the Mugwumps to support Hill, but it is noticeable that they are profoundly silent over the repudiation of the Democratic state ticket by the New York Staats Zeitung, the leading German paper in that city. The bolt of a large number of German voters to Davenport, which is predicted by one of the editors of the Staats Zeitung in an interview published in the Albany Journal, is a serious blow to the Democrats, and, when added to their other embarrassments, makes the Democratic outlook gloomy indeed. Yes, the failure of the Democratic press to grow mirthful over the loss of their German contingent in New York is easily explained.

SECRETARY WHITNEY has received suggestions from a special commission respecting the five new vessels which he is authorized to build for the Navy. There are two questions which the naval experts have not been sufficiently discourteous to discuss. First, how can these vessels be built economically, when the contractor whose bids on the Dolphin and the cruisers were more than $300,000 below the next competitor's has been driven into bankruptcy? Secondly, how can these vessels be built at all after the Navy Department's malignant persecution of John Roach? No American shipbuilder will care to have dealings with a Government that pays over $2,000,000 for new vessels, and then declares that there is no valid contract and that the builder must pay back every dollar he has received.

S. G. W. BENJAMIN, the late United States minister to Persia, in the course of an interesting article on that country and its people, says the descendants of the ancient fire worshippers only number about twenty-five thousand, the great bulk of the population being devout Mohammedans. The fire worshippers are among the most upright of the people. Of the Christian missionaries who have now been laboring in Persia for fifty years, Mr. Benjamin does not hesitate to say that they have been as successful as the same number of ministers have been at home in the same time. And leaving the positive results in the way of converts out of the question, they have set afloat among the people forces the influences of which it is impossible to rightly estimate.

THE Phila. Times says: "The Democratic organs of this State are only hurting themselves and their candidate for State Treasurer by unfairly stating Col. Quay's military record. It is true that the Republican candidate resigned precisely six days before the battle of Fredericksburg, on account of continued ill health, but it is also true that several days later, when he learned that a battle was probable, he returned to the camp and insisted on going to battle with his regiment. Whatever Colonel Quay has been or done since the war there is no question as to his personal bravery in the field and attempts to misrepresent it can only react upon those who make them."

THE Democratic administration is perpetrating a great wrong in making boys work all day Sunday under the regulations of the new immediate delivery system, which went into effect on the 1st of October in all cities over 4,000 population. If Sundays are excepted from the rule, the system will deserve to prosper; otherwise, we do not wish it success. P. S.—We notice since writing the above that the postmaster general will excuse the messengers from any more work on Sunday than they are now performing, which, of course, renders criticism unnecessary.

THE Government is taking every possible precaution within its power to prevent the introduction of small-pox into the United States from Canada. It will be the work of a miracle almost if this loathsome disease is kept from spreading into New England and elsewhere, but the conditions and notions of our people are such as to occasion little fear that the disease can become epidemic with us.

THE Massachusetts Republican Convention on Wednesday, the 30th, nominated the following ticket:

Governor,	George D. Robinson,
Lieutenant Governor,	Oliver Ames,
Secretary of State,	Henry B. Pierce,
Treasurer and Receiver Gen'l,	A. B. Beard,
Auditor,	Charles R. Ladd,
Attorney General,	Edgar L. Sherman,

Poetry.

TAKEN IN.

Stranger here? Yes; come from Varmount,
Rutland county. You've hern tell
Mebbe of the town o' Granville?
You born there? No! Sho! Well! well!
You was born at Granville, was you?
Then you know Elisha Brown,
Hire as runs the old meat market
At the lower end of town?
Well! well! well! Born down in Granville!
And out here, so far away!
Stranger, I'm homesick already,
Though it's but a week to-day
Since I left my good wife standin'
Out there at the kitchen door,
Sayin' she'd ask God to keep me;
And her eyes were runnin' o'er!
You must know old Albert Withers,
Henry Bell, and Ambrose Cole?
Know them all? And born in Granville!
Well! well! well! God bless my soul!
Sho! You're not old Isaac's nephew!
Isaac Green, down on the flat!
Isaac's oldest nephew—Henry?
Well, I'd never thought of that!
Ha' e I got a hundred dollars
I could loan you for a minute,
Till you buy a horse at Marcy's?
There s my wall-t! Just that in it!
Hold on, though! You have ten, mebbe,
You cou d let me keep; you see,
I might chance to need a little
Betwixt now and half past three!
Ten: That s it; you'll owe me ninety;
Br ng it round to the hotel.
So you're old friend Isaac's nephew?
Born in Granville? Sho! well! well!

What! policeman! did you call me?
That a rascal going there?
Well, sir, do you know I thought so,
And I played him pretty fair;
Hundred-dollar bill I gave him—
Counterfeit—and got this ten!
Ten ahead. No! you don't tell me!
This bad, too? Sho! Sold again!

A WOMAN'S NO.

She had a parcel, small and round,
One lovely afternoon last summer;
I offered, as in duty bound,
To take it from her.

She thanked me with a gracious smile,
As sweet as rosy lips could make it;
It was so small, 'twas not worth while
To let me take it.

Again I offered, as before,
Of that slight burden to relieve her;
She'd rather not; "Pray say no more!"
'Twould really grieve her.

I ceased to plead; she seemed content,
The thing was small and neatly corded,
And so along our way we went
To where she boarded.

But when upon the stoop she stood,
And ere our last adieus were uttered,
She eyed me in a roguish mood,
And softly muttered,

As swung the door to let her through,
And left me there all unresisting;
"I dont think very much of you
For not insisting."

SWEET MOTHER OF MY DREAMS.

Sweet mother of my dreams,
Come, come to-night!
How can I meet an added morrow,
Till thou bring solace to my sorrow,
Cleaving life's plain
By night in twain?

Sweet mother of my dreams,
Bring love! bring peace!
As day is death by loss of thee,
So night is life by gift of thee,
Albeit I waken
Twofold forsaken.

Sweet mother of my dreams,
Thank God for thee!
Not all Christ's mercy is foresworn,
While I, sometimes 'twixt dusk and morn,
Still touch thy hand
In slumberland.

Our Story Teller.

A Wrong Guess.

Her jellies were always a success, her preserves were beyond criticism, and she was innocently proud of her prowess. She was a dark, brilliant little brunette, with large, liquid eyes, whose curled lashes turned piquantly upward, and a mouth as red and fresh as a wild rose.

"The prettiest girl in all the country!" as Walter Milliman said to himself, as he leaned over the window-sill. "Narcissa!" he ventured to say, after a second or two of respectful silence, during which, although she must have known perfectly well that he was there, she never raised her eyes.

"Oh! is it you, Walter?"

"Don't let me interrupt you," said Walter, a little stiffly, "I've brought you one of Dora's little white puppies—here in the basket."

"A puppy!" cried Narcissa, contemptuously. "Me a puppy! I hate dogs! I dare say Alice Jeffries would like the dog," said she. "Alice is fond of pets."

"I dare say so, too," Walter rejoined dryly. "Good morning, Narcissa! Oh by the way—"

"Well?"

Narcissa was stirring away more vigorously than ever now.

"About the new moon picnic. I suppose you will be going with Silber?"

"I shouldn't wonder," said Narcissa, coloring up.

"Then I needn't trouble about coming after you?"

"Certainly you need not"

So these silly young people parted.

Walter Milliman would have given his life for Narcissa Hall. Narcissa loved the very sound of the young fellow's free, frank voice; and yet nobody on earth knew why they had both contrived to build up between themselves the framework of a very pretty quarrel.

"How ridiculous! One of Dora's puppies, indeed!" said Narcissa, tossing her head.

"That fat, old Silber!" pondered Walter. "A man old enough to be her father? And weighing 250 pounds at the very least! Is the girl crazy?"

The jam was a perfect success. Of course it would be, being Narcissa Hall's work; and she was portioning it into glass jars with dainty precision, when she heard heavy steps among the Sweet Williams and Johnny Jumpups that bordered the path outside.

"That sounds exactly like Mr. Silbers," she said to herself. "Horrid, fat old man! what brings him here again? It was only last week that he came here with the parrot; and father is with him. Well, I do hope father won't tell him that I sold the parrot to Billy Johnson for $5, because he pulled the roses off my best hat and killed the canary, and kept us all awake nights shrieking 'How d'ye do? how d'ye do?'"

And thus meditating, Narcissa shrank behind the clematis vines, that made a curtain of natural green across the casement.

Hush! those were surely the rumbling, sonorous tones of the squire himself.

"I'suppose, Hall," said he with a chuckle, "you consider me too old for that sort o' thing."

"Well, I don't know," the good farmer replied, slowly. "Tastes differ."

"But ef I've took a fancy to the little thing——"

"Hum:" said Mr. Hall, doubtfully.

"And I'll give her a real good home. Every bit as good as she has here."

"I never doubted that, Mr. Silber.'

"I'll go bail she'll be happy with b me."

"She'd ought to be happy with you—sartin, squire."

"Come," said Silber, insinuatingly, "is it a bargain?"

"I can't take it on me to decide," said Mr. Hall, meditatingly. "You must ask Narcissa yourself, Mr Silber."

"But you don't think she'll object?"

"I don't know," said Mr. Hall, shaking his head—"I don't know. Girls are queer. There's never no telling which way they'll jump. You ask her yourself, I say."

But Narcissa did not wait for the sequel of this strange discussion. Her cheeks blazed crimson; her eyes sparkled like jet stars, as she caught her pink gingham sunbonnet off its nail behind the kitchen door, and leaving the jars of garnet-colored sweetness on the table, sped away over the daisy-spangled fields to a certain upland meadow, where Walter Milliman was harnessing the old horse to a glittering mowing machine.

"Narcissa!" he cried in amazement.

"What's the matter? What has happened?"

"Oh, Walter," she said, "I am so frightened. I—I don't know what it all means. I don't know what I ought to do!"

He hung the bridle over an old pump, and led Narcissa into the shadow of umbrella-like oak that grew near the stone fence.

"Tell me about it," said he.

It was strange how each had settled into his and her relative position—Narcissa clinging, trusting, hiding herself, as it were, under the ægis of his protection—Walter calmly superior in the midst of his tender solicitude.

"Why, child," said he, "the old idiot wants to—to marry you!"

Narcissa crimsoned to the very roots of her hair.

"I thought so," she whispered. "I was almost certain of it. But—but what am I to do?"

He took both her little cold hands in his.

"Don't be frightened, Narcissa," said he. "You can't marry two people at once, can you?"

"No—at least, I suppose not."

"And you're engaged to me, aren't you?"

"If you say so, Walter," hanging down her head.

"I do say so, Narcissa! And now let me take you home. We'll see whether old Silber is to have everything his own way or not."

"But the Lorses, Walter?"

"They'll stay here contentedly enough until I come back, pet—never fear. Oh, by the way, Narcissa! little Dorette is in the basket under the hedge. I haven't given her to Alice Jeffreys yet."

"Oh, Walter, do get her!" whispered Narcissa. "The little white fluffy darling! I've been thinking of her ever since—ever since you went away. And, Walter," nervously playing with the buttons of her coat, "I told you a horrid story about the parrot. I couldn't endure the screeching thing, and Billy Johnson took it away three days ago."

"Narcissa, you are the dearest little girl in the world!" cried the enraptured lover.

"No, I am not," confessed the fair penitent. "I am across, deceitful, treacherous——"

But here the catalogue of sin was cut short with absorbing kisses.

Squire Silber, a rubicund and portly gentleman well on in the forties, sat on the porch fanning himself and waiting, while Mr. Hall peered restlessly up and down the road.

"Here she is now," said Hall, with a long sigh of relief, as his daughter came up, with Mr. Milliman carrying her pink sunbonnet as reverently as if it were a queen's crown.

"Narcissa, here's Squire Silber waiting to speak to you."

"Miss Narcissa——" ingratiatingly commenced the stout gentleman

"It's of no use," said Narcissa, putting both hands to her pink little ears. "I never, never will consent!"

"Yes; but won't you hear me, Miss Nar——"

"No, no, no!" and Narcissa stamped her foot with renewed emphasis.

"Hear reason, daughter," gently urged the farmer—"hear reason."

"But I don't want to hear reason," said Narcissa, almost crying.

"He'd be just as good to the little horse as you yourself would be," said the farmer; "and $500 is a price that don't often come our way. He is going to train her to be a trotter, don't you see?"

"Oh, he may have her and welcome," cried Narcissa, uncertain whether to laugh or cry. "I thought—I supposed—I don't know what I did think!"

And she ran into the house and hid behind the great Japanese screen in the best parlor, followed straightway by Walter Milliman.

"Oh, go away," she sobbed; "I feel as if I could go through a crack in the floor. I am so dreadfully, horribly ashamed of myself. It's all a mistake."

"No, it is not," said Milliman, reassuringly. "About our being engaged, dearest—that's not a mistake?"

"No, that isn't a mistake, but——"

"Then I don't care a straw about anything else," said Walter rapturously. "And it is consolation, too, isn't it, to think that after all, old Silber is not such a fool as we took him for."

"Yes," said Narcissa, in a low voice. "I think it is."

Vanity that Wanted Flattering.

"Yes, George, I will marry, but you will have to elope with me."

"Why, Clarissa? Do your parents object to me?"

"No; they think you're just splendid."

"Then, why must we elope?"

"Why, George, don't you know that if I elope the papers will speak of me as the beautiful daughter of wealthy parents?"

Heart Disease.

On February 11, 1828, DeWitt Clinton, then Governor, had been at the Executive Chamber in the Capitol attending to official business, the Legislature being in session. In the evening he was sitting in his private library with his son, the present Judge George W. Clinton, of Buffalo, looking over his afternoon mail. He had a letter in his hand, when his head dropped on his breast and he immediately expired. He died of heart disease, then little known under that name. He had been State Senator, Lieutenant-Governor, Mayor of New York city, Senator in Congress, many terms Governor, and a candidate for President. He was a man of majestic mien, and one of the foremost statesmen of the country.

Silas Wright, a totally different man from Clinton, was a part of the time during his public career his contemporary, and always his political opponent. On August 27, 1847, Mr. Wright went to the postoffice in his little town of Canton, in the county of St. Lawrence. He was reading a letter when his head sank upon the table and he died of heart disease without a moment's warning. He had retired from the office of Governor the previous January. He had been State Senator, State Comptroller, a long while Senator in Congress, and had won distinction in these stations. He had a large following in the country, and at his demise was the rallying point of the Barnburner faction of the Democracy.

William L. Marcy was for thirty years a conspicuous figure in State and National politics. He was State Comptroller, Judge of the Supreme Court, Senator in Congress, Governor for three terms, Secretary of War under Polk, and Secretary of State under Pierce. He retired from the latter office on March 4, 1857. On July 4th of that year he was resting at Ballston Spa. He had taken lunch and repaired to his room, where he was found an hour afterward leaning on the bed, quite dead, with a volume of Cowper's poems in his hand. He had died of heart disease.

A member of the celebrated Assembly of 1842, Sanford E. Church, of Orleans county, bore a prominent share in the affairs of New York for the subsequent thirty-eight years. He was a trusted counselor of the Democratic party, an able Lieutenant Governor and State Comptroller, and in 1870 was chosen Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals. On May 15, 1880, he then being Chief Judge, and in the fullness of his powers, he went to the bank in the village of Albion, where he resided, and while perusing a letter which he had just before taken from the postoffice, suddenly became unconscious and passed away. He died of heart disease.

The death of Reuben E. Fenton at Jamestown is so recent that we need not give the particulars of his public life. He was ten years in the House of Representatives, four years Governor of the State, and six years a Senator in Congress. He has made his mark in the councils of the country. Apparently in good health, he was at his desk in the First National Bank in Jamestown, of which he was president, reading his correspondence. Without the slightest premonition he fell backward in his chair, convulsively grasping a letter he was at that moment answering, gave a long, gasping breath, and soon expired. He died of heart disease.

These are remarkable instances of the sudden death by the same disease of five distinguished public men of New York under circumstances almost identical.

The divining rod, sometimes used by well diggers, and at an early day by oil prospectors, is a popular fiction that dates back to the eleventh century.

Connecticut is now the only State in the Union, it is said, whose legislature retains judicial functions. The Connecticut legislature is still a supreme court in equity.

Bees are peculiarly subject to dysentery, a disease which sometimes almost decimates a hive, and which is commonly due to defective ventilation and a thin quality of the winter food.

It takes ten times as long to commit to memory eighty meaningless syllables as it does to master eighty syllables that mean something. A professor of the University of Berlin devoted twenty-two consecutive hours to the mental labor of proving this fact.

Speaking of the feeling while on a mountain or abyss of being drawn toward the brink, the London Lancet says, it is an impulse to fly. It is an abnormal development of the subordinate faculty of flight which man possesses in common with, and actually derives from, the bird.

Mary is the name most common among men in France, where, as in Italy, the custom prevails of giving the Virgin's name to a boy, in conjunction with a distinctly male appellation. Thus Hugo was Victor Marie. After Mary come in order of frequency Louis, Joseph, Charles, Henry, Francis, Peter, Paul, Julius, Maurice, Anthony, Eugene, Leo, Victor, Augustus, Edward, Ernst and George.

"A great many New York swell young men are now figuring in Newport society," remarks a society paper. But it forgot to explain that they were figuring to see how they could live on five dollars a week through the winter.

She was plump and beautiful and he was wildly fond of her; she hated him, but, woman like, she strove to catch him. He was a fly.

The Vanderbilt Mausoleum.

Mr. William A. Vanderbilt, his youngest son, George, and his son-in-law, Mr. H. McK. Twombly, visited the old Vanderbilt farm at New Dorp, S. I., and the Moravian cemetery, where he viewed the work upon the mausoleum that is in course of construction there. Mr. Furnshaw, the partner of Richard M. Hunt, the architect of the mausoleum, and Mr. Osgrander, the superintendent of the Moravian cemetery were present.

Mr. Vanderbilt inspected interior of the mausoleum. There are eight different sets of small vaults ranged along the east and west sides. Each set contains nine chambers. Altogether the mausoleum will hold seventy-two bodies. The vaults are made of solid, thick slabs of Quincy granite, with four sides alike. Each apartment is backed by walls of heavy blocks of granite set in a double wall eight feet thick, and which will be at least fifteen feet under the ground. A great tower or mound will rise up, from which will extend in mid air two towers or "lanterns" as the builders term them, that will admit air and light to the tomb. The light will come through glass ten inches thick, which will be protected by massive iron bars sunk deep into thick layers of granite blocks. The air will be introduced through apertures protected with bars.

In front of the tomb are three hollow columns, Gothic in pattern. The carving of the figures inside of the tomb is what is known as the "conventional." The figures and designs are of Indiana limestone. The first design, which is over the vault where the bodies of Commodore Vanderbilt and family will lie, represents the "Creation." The arm of God reaches from the heavens and rests directly over the body of a man in an attitude of repose. The next piece of carving represents Paradise, with Adam and Eve surrounded by flowers, shrubbery and budding fruit trees. The third carving represents Moses handing down the ten commandments to two kneeling figures; the fourth, King David with harp; the fifth, King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, with the butterfly alighting on the bunch of flowers when the Queen asks the flower; the sixth, the Virgin Mary and the infant Jesus; the seventh the Crucifixion, and the eighth, the Ascension.

Tablets extend all around the outer chamber. The inner chamber will contain an altar and reredos for the holding of burial services. The tomb is set directly into a hill, and after it is finished will be covered with earth in which trees will be planted. Beneath it a double concrete floor will be laid to keep the upper apartments dry. The mausoleum will cost about $225,000. Work upon it is being rapidly pushed. After the inspection Mr. Vanderbilt and party returned to New York.

Villard's Wonderful Palace.

A New York letter in the Newark Advertiser says: Mr. Villard, it is certain, had no intimation until the last moment of the trouble that was to come upon him and ruin him. He laid his plans for the future with mathematical precision. He had an enormous income and he used it freehandedly. One of his extravagances was a splendid mansion which he built on Madison avenue. When the crash came and he had to meet his debts the house went out of his grasp with other assets. This was the hardest blow of all, for Villard had put his heart into this house. That is why, possibly, the Villard mansion is one of the most beautiful dwellings in New York. The simpleness of the impression made by its interior decorations is quite extraordinary. The building itself is copied from an Italian palace. It is a part of a group of buildings, six altogether. The Villard house is a right wing of the entire structure. One enters the vestibule by a court and finds himself in an Italian palace, of course on a small scale. The color is that of Sienna marbles and deeper browns. The hall runs at right angles with the vestibule, opening at one end into a drawing room suite and at the other into a music room The walls are paneled with Sienna marble of various tints. The vaults of the ceiling are inlaid with a Renaissance design. There is a splendid fireplace and above this a relief figure by Augustus St. Gaudens. Throughout the hall and vestibule there are so many exquisite details of workmanship that it is hard to refer to them in a matter-of-fact way. The dining-room is divided by mahogany pillars into three divisions and is ornamented with gorgeous effect. The walls are hung with ecru silk wrought in the tints of mahogany. The walls have a restful tint of unbroken cream. Slabs of Mexican onyx surmount the fire place. The dining room is paneled in old oak; it is divided by a screen of perforated carving. The music-room is a lofty apartment in white and gold, with soft pine wainscoting. On the second floor the library is in mahogany. Then there is an antique room with a nail-studded ceiling. In fact, there are so many wonderful chambers in the house which Mr. Villard will never, it is thought, rest his head in, that one can only sympathize with a man who could have built so noble a structure and then lost it.

Not on the Bills.

It was at a country hotel in Pennsylvania. The single stranger who sat down at dinner was amazed when the waiter handed him a printed bill of fare which began with oyster soup and clam chowder and ran down to four kinds of pie and chocolate ice cream.

"I'll take oyster soup," said the guest.

"Y-e-s, but we haven't got any," replied the waiter.

"Very well, give me clam chowder."

"We are out of that, too."

"Then bring me baked whitefish, fried sausage. Saratoga potatoes, French wheat rolls, ribs of beef, and a cup of coffee."

"We haven't got any, sir. All we've got is beef steak, b'iled taters, and baker's bread, and coffee."

At that moment the landlord entered the room, and the guest called out:

"See here, landlord, but what sort of a trick is this?"

"What? Oh, that bill of fare. My dear sir, let me explain. My uncle kept a seaside hotel, and he failed. He had 30,000 bills of fare on hand and I bought them at private sale for $2. These are hard times—very hard—and we must utilize everything, and keep up style at the same time."

Killed by a Peach Stone.

Carlisle Sentinel.

Mr. William Stouffer, residing on the State road, about four miles north of Hoguestown, in Silver Spring township, died on Saturday under most agonizing circumstances. About two weeks ago he went into his peach orchard, and while there ate a clingstone. With the flesh stone in his mouth he looked up into the branches of the tree in search of another luscious sample when, unfortunately, the stone slipped down his throat and lodged in the thorax. He consulted a physician of Mechanicsburg, who succeeded in dislodging it from the throat, but did not succeed in getting it to pass further than the chest. There it finally lodged, causing a loss of appetite and the most agonizing pains until death finally culminated from starvation. Mr. Stouffer was a well-to-do farmer, aged about 45 years, and leaves a widow and several children.

How Some Folks Buy Butter.

An old woman a few days ago approached a stand on which was displayed several large tubs of butter. She took a nickel from her purse and making a scoop through the butter, tasted what she gathered on the coin. After which the following conversation took place:

"Is that fresh butter?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Country?"

"No, ma'am; tub."

"What's it worth?"

"Twenty-five cents per pound."

"Have you anything better?"

"Yes, ma'am; here you are—thirty cents."

Tasting it, and shaking her head doubtfully, she said:

"Have you any other kind?"

"Yes, ma'am; here is some for fifteen cents per pound."

"Give me a quarter of a pound, please?" said the woman. The dealer recovered sufficiently to comply with the demand.

Keeping it all to Himself.

Smith (lifting the cover of his basket and displaying it full of fish)—Nice mess, eh, for one day's sport?

Brown—Yes. Did you catch 'em all yourself?

Smith—Certainly, of course.

Brown—Where did you catch 'em?

Smith (slyly)—Oh, in a little stream in Pennsylvania not a thousand miles from here. But I can't give the snap away, you know, old boy.

Brown (sarcastically)—No, indeed If I knew where I could catch Spanish mackerel in a Pennsylvania stream I wouldn't give the snap away, either.

The following anecdote is told of the celebrated surgeon, Mr. Abernethy: One day, during an examination of a class of students, he asked one of them what he would do in the case of a man being blown up by gunpowder. "I should wait till he came down again," was the cool reply. "True," rejoined Abernethy. "And suppose I should kick you for such an impertinent reply, what muscles should I put in motion?" "The flexors and extensors of my right arm," said the student; "for I would floor you directly."

That is a droll story about a fellow on board an ocean steamer who sat off by himself, and seemed to be generally sore in his mind about something. He presented such a forlorn appearance that some ladies on deck thought they ought to inquire what was the matter So one old lady approached and asked the lonely one why he was so disconsolate. "The fact is," said he, "I'm on my bridal tour, but I didn't have money enough to bring my wife with me."

A bashful young man who was afraid to propose to his sweetheart, induced her to fire at him with a pistol, which he assured her was only loaded with powder; and after she had done so fell down and pretended to be dead. She threw herself wildly upon the body, calling him her darling and her beloved; whereupon he got up and married her.

Alderman Petsch was hurrying out of his office yesterday afternoon when he stumbled against a poor inebriate leaning against the jamb of the door. "Please tell me what time it is," said the intruder. "Two o'clock," answered the Alderman. "Will you please, then, wake me up at 4?" was the polite rejoinder.

Nothing Very Serious.

"What was the trouble at church this morning?" inquired one Dakota citizen of another. "I understand there was a row."

"Oh, it didn't amount to anything. Some of the members in the back pews threatened to shoot the minister unless he spoke louder. That was all."

A few days ago the pastor of the Methodist Church in Decatur ruled that the organist could not play in his church unless she gave up playing for dances, whereupon a large majority of the members seceded.

A company of artillery has accepted an invitation to be present at a brass band tournament at Cataumet, Mass. It was a brilliant idea to secure the attendance of a company of artillery. If they don't succeed in putting down the angry populace when the bands begin to play, it is probable that the militia will also be called out.

Two Snakes in His Stomach.

WELLSBORO, Pa., Oct. 1.—John Longwell of Charleston, a few miles from here, has for two years past been subject to fits, being attacked suddenly and lying unconscious for hours. Within the past few months he has experienced a cold sensation in his throat occasionally, as though something was rising into his mouth. This, attended with the strange feeling in his stomach, convinced him that there was some living thing inside of him. His physician thought it would do no harm to give him an emetic, and accordingly gave his patient a large dose. The result was that Mr. Longwell threw up two snakes, one about fourteen inches long and the other a foot in length, brown in color, and both alive, and they are alive yet. Mr. Longwell was so overjoyed at this deliverance that he brought the reptiles to town and exhibited them to a few of his friends. Mr. Longwell thinks that he swallowed the eggs which produced the snakes while carelessly drinking water from a spring. The snakes have been seen today by a large number of persons.

Remarkable Tight-Rope Performance

PORTAGE, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Fully 4,000 persons from Buffalo, Rochester, Elmira, and other places along the line of the Erie road were on the banks of the Portage Gorge this afternoon to see Prof. J. E. DeLeon of Springfield, O., walk a tight rope stretched 350 feet from side to side at a distance of 200 feet above the bed of the river and directly above the falls. The rope was an inch in diameter, much smaller than is generally used in such feats. The performer walked across in eight minutes, and returned to the centre of the chasm, where he gave a trapeze performance, after which he lowered himself to the river, landing on the stonework which was recently built to keep the falls from washing away. He was thoroughly exhausted, and after a rest climbed the stairs to Murphy's Park and marched triumphantly back to his hotel, preceded by a brass band.

New York Succumbs to the Inevitable.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The New York giants were again defeated by Chicago to-day. The game was well played and was exciting to the ten thousand spectators until the ninth inning, when, with the score standing 4 to 3 in their favor, Chicago made four runs and settled the victory beyond doubt. The New Yorkers were outplayed at all points. Chicago made eight safe hits, including two double-baggers, and New York made three singles. New York had eleven errors charged against them, while Chicago had eight. Score by innings:

Chicago	0	2	0	2	0	0	0	4	—8
New York	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	0	—3

The Oldest in the Country.

BETHLEHEM, Oct. 2.—The centennial anniversary of the Moravian seminary for young ladies, the oldest institution of its kind in the country, was celebrated here to-day. The attendance of former pupils and their friends was very large, many coming from a great distance. The exercises were held in the Moravian church this afternoon. Addresses were delivered by Rt. Rev. Edmund DeSchweinetz, S. T. D., and Hon. S. F. Philips, ex-solicitor general of the United States, and a historical paper was read by Rev. Albert Loenter. This evening a social reunion of the alumni and their friends took place in the chapel of the school. The seminary was elaborately decorated and many happy incidents occurred during the day.

The Clearfield Republican Convention.

CLEARFIELD, Sept. 29.—The Republican County Convention met here to-day. There was a large attendance and the following nominations were made: For Sheriff, Jesse E. Dale, of Dubois: District Attorney, Frank G. Harris, of Clearfield; Jury Commissioner, C. C. Ball, of Bigler township. Resolutions were passed denouncing the present county fee system, reaffirming Republican principles, indorsing the nomination of Quay and favoring tariff. M. L. McQuon, of Clearfield, was elected chairman of the county committee.

An Editor's Death.

A Good Report.

At the Clearfield County Sunday-school Convention held yesterday in William's Grove, at Bigler Station, Rev. R. Crittenden reported. In Clearfield county there are at the present time not less than 120 Sunday-schools, having a total membership of about 8,500. Nine-tenths of these use the International Scripture Lessons. More than ninety-nine-hundredths of the thousands gathered in for Bible study on the Lord's day are total abstainers from intoxicating drinks as a beverage. There is but a slight increase in the number of schools since 1880. In some localities there are cases of two contiguous schools having united in one which is no evidence of a retrograde in Sunday-school work, but rather a mark of progress in the right direction. While we rejoice in the fact that many old union schools, once in school-houses, have now become denominational schools in churches, we still recognize the necessity for schools in some localities to be continued yet on a strictly union basis.

No Applications.

The new marriage license law had been in force a day and a half at noon Friday, but up to that time no blushing maiden or loving swain had applied for a license. We believe that Mr. James McClain, the register, is the proper person to go to to obtain the license, and he will handle the tender hearted creatures who present themselves before him with all the care and solicitude which become a true gentleman, especially one who fully appreciates the situation, and wouldn't like to be in a similar fix himself. When he asks the age of the lady he will be able to hear the answer even if given in a whisper, and he will be sure to make it just as pleasant as possible for all parties concerned.

We fancy that since this new duty has been added to the position there will be a greater desire than ever before to fill the office of register. He almost, as it were, takes the place of the minister.

Centre County vs. Blair County.

The Altoona Tribune, of this morning, has the following: "Alderman Rose was kept busy yesterday taking dispositions in the case of Centre county vs. Blair county. Two patients now in the insane asylum at Danville are credited to Centre county, and the question in dispute is whether they were not residents of Blair. If so, the latter county would be entitled to pay the amount of money expended for them. David F. Fortney, Esq., of Bellefonte, took charge of the interests of Centre county, while D. S. Brumbaugh, Esq., of Roaring Springs, counsel for the directors of the poor, did the same for Blair county."

—The Philipsburg Journal says: "On Saturday, Willie, a 4-year-old son of William and Mary Ewen, living at Hawk Run junction, drank a quantity of concentrated lye, which was set on the stove hearth by his mother, while doing some household work. The doctor was sent for and did all he could to help the little sufferer, and at the present writing is not expected to recover. His father was absent at the time attending the funeral of his brother-in-law's child. The afflicted parents have the sympathy of the community. Since the above was put in type we learn the little one died from the effects of the lye."

A Carrier Pigeon's Flight.

This morning ex-Sheriff Dunkle let loose a carrier pigeon belonging to Mr. Robert Taylor, of Philipsburg. The pigeon was a beautiful bird and was much admired by dozens of people before taking its flight. It was given wing at exactly 10:05 a. m., on jail hill and circled around for several minutes before finding its course. The thick smoke in the air probably caused the apparent confusion of the bird.

Across the Deep, to the far West,

On steamboats, cars and stage-coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the traveling public. It deprives vitiated brackish water of its hurtful properties and execrable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, remedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malarial disorders, unlifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick headache, and is an incomparable cure for costiveness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents, occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardize life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

—Mr. Geo. Jackson's residence, on Linn street, has been repainted in very attractive style, and is now quite conspicuous among the other elegant residences which adorn that street.

—The Ravenna glass works, at Revenna, Ohio, began operations Friday. Mr. Thos. Reeves, a former employe of the Bellefonte factory, is now employed there.

Queer reading would be the history of names. We cannot, however, go into the subject now, except so far as to say that Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" was called by that name, in an informal fashion long before the Doctor dreamed of advertising it for public use. Speaking of it he would say to his patients, "This is my favorite remedy for all troubles of the blood," &c., and its success was so great that he finally spelled the name with capital letters.

Medical, Etc.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.

Twenty-five Convicts Shot.

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 6.—A dispatch from Rusk, Texas, to the News says: "Sunday, at the terminus of the Kansas and Gulf Shore line, near Lufkin, in Angelina county, Texas, sixty convicts made a desperate break for liberty. The men were being worked on the railroad. The revolt occurred at 5 o'clock, just as the prisoners had finished their supper. With deafening yells they started up in a body and rushed for the neighboring woods. The guards opened fire on the fleeing convicts with deadly effect. The latest report says that twenty-five of the convicts were killed or wounded. The prisoners ran in one large body, and the guards simply emptied their repeating rifles and small arms into the moving mass. Rumors of an intended mutiny in this camp had been rife for some weeks. These rumors were strengthened by the fact that many of the convicts were serving life sentences and were known to be desperate characters. Extra precautions were being taken to avoid any uprising. Every means possible is being used to recapture the thirty-five convicts who succeeded in eluding the rifles of the guards. All avenues of escape are being guarded and posses are organized to scour the country. The scene of the outbreak is some miles from a telegraph office.

Reading's Many Troubles.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The seven trustees appointed to formulate a plan for the reorganization of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad company, having been unable to agree upon any plan, have concluded to abandon the attempt and will call a meeting of all the interests, to be held next Friday, to formulate some plan of reconstruction adapted to the circumstances. It is stated that plans will be submitted at the meeting, showing precisely to what extent a scaling of interests will be required to bring the fixed charges within the earnings and prevent foreclosure in any way that will demand the peremptory sale of the property. The trustees for the general and income mortgage bondholder are said to be exerting their influences rather for an amicable than a peremptory foreclosure.

A Small-pox Patient's Wild Actions

MONTREAL, October 5.—The returns at the health office show that there were fifty-nine deaths in the city yesterday and six deaths in neighboring towns. The man Bruneage, who it will be remembered ran into the central station a few days ago and said that some one was trying to kill him and who was afterward taken to the hospital, jumped through a window of the hospital last night and ran through the streets with only his night clothes on. He ran into a passage and commenced pounding on the door of a residence. The inmates, becoming alarmed, went out and gave him a beating. A constable soon arrived and produced a light, when to their horror they saw that the man was suffering from small-pox and that their hands were covered with blood from the pits on his face.

Rutgers Students Victorious.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Oct. 5.—The seventeen Rutgers students who were arrested for disorderly conduct on Wednesday night appeared this evening before Justice Lefferts. Their counsel, Allen Strong, said that under the vice and immorality act of 1880 the Justice had no jurisdiction, and that all such complaints must be made before the Recorder. This brought the proceedings to a close and the students were discharged. Policeman Manion says he will not renew the complaint before the Recorder. George A. Viehman, a student, has made a complaint before the Recorder accusing Manion of profanity and indecent language. This will be heard on Wednesday evening.

The students are out in force to-night on the campus rejoicing over their victory. They have burned John F. Babcock, editor of the Fredonian, in effigy. President Gates sent for a policeman to arrest them, but he refused to do so unless the President would make a formal complaint.

No Special Delivery on Sunday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The postmaster general has made the following announcement of the policy of the department in regard to the treatment of letters bearing special delivery stamps received in postoffices on Sunday: "It is not expected by the department that postmasters shall require messengers in the special delivery service to report for attendance on Sunday nor to keep their offices open to any different extent than is now provided by the regulations and usage for special delivery purposes."

Last Act of a Tragedy.

HOBOKEN, N. J., October 6.—The last scene in the Central park double tragedy was enacted to-day. At Breeker, Weehawken cemetery at noon a group of mourners, among whom were Dr. E. S. Koch and his two boys, stood in dripping rain, while the coffin containing the body of Mrs. Maria Koch was lowered into the grave. Bossendorf, the companion of the woman, was buried in a Lutheran cemetery on the outskirts of Brooklyn.

The Window Glass Workers to Resume

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—The wages differences between the window glass manufacturers and workmen, which threatened to result in a strike, have been satisfactorily settled and a general resumption of the factories will take place as soon as the furnaces can be put into a condition for work. It is understood the workmen compromised on a 10 per cent reduction.

Five Killed—Many Wounded.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5.—A terrible accident happened on the Fergus Falls branch of the Northern Pacific Railroad, seven miles west of here, Sunday morning, by which five men lost their lives and thirty or forty were more or less injured. John Robinson's show left Washington, Dak., for this place in two sections, when within seven miles of Fergus Falls, near a small place named French, the head or baggage section broke in two while going up a heavy grade and ten or twelve cars went flying back at a terrific rate. On the rear of the train were three sleeping cars, occupied by workmen, over two hundred in number, all of whom were sound asleep. The cars which had broken loose increased their speed as they approached the second or cage section and probably had run a mile before they struck it. The engineer of the rear section saw the cars approaching, but only had time to stop his train before it struck him. The brakemen on the loose cars tried to put on brakes, but they had difficulty in running from car to car on account of the wagons, which impeded their progress. Had the engineer of the rear section only a moment more time he could have backed his train and avoided the calamity. But it was too late and the cars struck his engine with tremendous force, throwing three sleepers from the track and smashing them beyond recognition.

Boxed Her Rival's Ears.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 4.—Mrs. Chas Helmrich, of Harrisburg, has been visiting some friends in this vicinity for several weeks and left her husband, who is a commercial traveler, at home to keep bachelor's hall. Helmrich is a man about 35 years old, and is said to be quite a favorite among the ladies. During his wife's absence he had a good time and yesterday afternoon started for Elmira, accompanied by a young woman. Some of Mrs. Helmrich's friends sent her word of her husband's doings. She came to this city and went to the Philadelphia and Erie depot where she waited for the 7 o'clock train, on which was her husband and the woman. The train had no sooner come to a standstill than the excited wife boarded it. Seated in the centre of one of the cars were her husband and his fair companion engaged in a lively conversation. Without giving the couple a moment's warning Mrs. Helmrich hurried up to the seat and commenced to box the fair creature's ears. The suddenness of the indignant wife's attack fell like a thunderbolt on the guilty pair. The young woman, when she recognized her assailant, jumped from her seat and hastily left the car, leaving her companion to settle matters with his wife. Mrs. Helmrich would not listen to explanations, and while the two were quarreling the train started. The scene was enjoyed by the passengers. The identity of the young woman remains a mystery to the gossips.

It Excited Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4.—A big stir was created yesterday by the impaling of an osprey on the lightning-rod of the Pine Street Presbyterian church at a height of one hundred and sixty feet. The bird, which measured about six feet across the wings, was caught in the right wing. Crowds gathered about the church all day, witnessing its desperate struggles for freedom. A handsome reward was offered for the capture of the wounded bird and several efforts were made to secure the prize. The Mount Vernon hook and ladder company got out one of its Hays trucks, in the hope of reaching the dizzy height with the ladder. A daring fellow climbed out of one of the windows of the spire and drew himself up to the lightning rod by sheer force until he had covered about two-thirds of the required height from the place of starting, when he weakened and descended to a point of safety. After the bird had suffered for several hours it was killed by a rifle ball.

A $90,000 Church Dedicated Yesterday.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 4.—The dedication of the new Franklin Street Methodist Episcopal church to the Almighty took place here to-day, marking an important era in the life of the Methodist people of this city and county. At the morning exercises Bishop R. S. Foster, of Boston, read the first part of the form for dedication from the ritual in the book of discipline, and extemporary prayer was then offered by Presiding Elder Van Scharck, after which Bishop Foster preached the dedicatory sermon. The presentation of the building for dedication was made by ex-Congressman L. D. Shoemaker, in behalf of the trustees. Rev. D. C. Olmstead pronounced the benediction. The building, which is one of the finest in this section of the State, cost nearly $90,000.

In the evening, Rev. J. H. Vincent, D. D., of Chautauqua, preached, and also delivered an address to nearly 2,000 persons.

Troublesome Indians.

MILES CITY, Mont., Oct. 6.—Four companies from Fort Custer, under Captain Jackson, are guarding the Yellowstone Valley, near Junction City, against depredating Indians, and have already captured and sent to the front about forty Crows. The Piegans and Cheyennes are also found off their reservations. A vigilant watch is being kept upon them by the cowboys and military. A report now comes that the Cheyennes are raiding the Mizpah Valley, and the troops will probably be sent from Fort Keogh to return them to their agency on the Rosebud.

Ireland Needs Funds.

BUFFALO, Oct. 6.—Rev. Father Cronin and James Money, of this city, who are among those named by the meeting last night in New York to proceed to Ireland for the purpose of assisting in the parliamentary canvass there, express this morning their disapproval of such a course. They agree with Alexander Sullivan that the Irish people need funds, not oratory, and they favor the policy of aiding Ireland in the direction where she is poor.

Death of Cleveland's Deputy Sheriff.

SHENANDOAH, Iowa, Oct. 6.—C. D. Lester, a stock dealer, committed suicide yesterday at Burlington Junction Springs. He was a well-known man and an old friend of President Cleveland's, having been deputy sheriff of Erie county, New York, when Cleveland was sheriff. No cause is assigned for the deed.

Set Fire to Their Own House.

CHEYENNE, W. T., Oct. 5.—A special from Greenwood says: Some testimony of a startling character was given to the grand jury to-day which is calculated to throw new light on the transaction at Rock Springs. During the recent riot there Rev. Timothy Thurlow, a Congregationalist minister who resided at Rock Springs with his family during the riot, made a sworn statement showing that the Chinese set fire to their own houses in order to prevent the white men from robbing them of their money which was buried in the ground and underneath their dwelling. Subsequent events have shown that this was the case, for as soon as the Chinamen returned to Rock Springs they commenced excavating under the ruins, and in one instance over $600 were found.

Driving Out Foreign Labor.

HUNTINGDON, October 4.—The last of the Italian and Hungarian miners have been driven from employment at the furnaces and mines at Saxton and have left the place. The operators are well satisfied to get rid of these foreigners, especially as American workmen offered themselves on advantageous terms. The employes of the Kemble Coal and Iron Company at Riddlesburg, which failed so disastrously last year, have since been idle. A strong prejudice was the result of the employment of foreign workmen, which showed itself in some persecution of them and occasional violence, and which, with the willingness of the employers to make a change, led to the filling of the places of all of them with American operatives.

A Money Lender in Trouble.

HARRISBURG, October 5.—C. G. James, a money lender of this city, was arrested this evening at the instance of Ludwig, Nesser & Co., of New York, who allege that through false representations he obtained from them over $40,000 worth of diamonds. James was held in default of $4,000 bail for a hearing.

In a quarrel this afternoon between Lewis and Thomas Weaver, brothers, at their home in this city, Lewis knocked Thomas down with a beer glass and then beat him about the head, inflicting wounds which are considered of a serious and probably fatal character. Lewis was arrested to-night and committed without bail for hearing.

Glassblowers Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The glassblowers are now on a strike in this city, a demand for a new scale of wages averaging about $1.50 per week higher than had been paid, having been refused. It is stated that there is also dissatisfaction among the hands because of the refusal of the firm to discharge some non-union hands. The firms affected by the strike are Gillender & Son, Rohrbecker & Homan, and Dill & Murray.

Definitely Settled.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—The report published on the 3d instant, that Germany and Spain had effected a settlement of the Carolines difficulties, is confirmed to-day. Prince Bismarck has written a friendly letter to the Pope, thanking him in the name of Germany for the interest his holiness had taken in the question. The agreement will be officially announced within a day or two.

Going to See the Indians.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Commissioner Atkins of the Indian Bureau left to-day on a tour of inspection through the Indian reservations. He went with the Holman investigating committee, which left this afternoon for the Indian Territory. From the Territory Mr. Atkins will go to San Carlos and investigate the condition of affairs there and the troubles that led to the Geronimo outbreak.

Discovery of an Asteroid.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—A cable despatch was received last night at the Harvard College Observatory announcing the discovery by Palisa of an asteroid of the fourteenth magnitude in right ascension 20 seconds, and declination south 7 degrees and 5 minutes, with a daily motion of minus 40 seconds, and 5 minutes in declination. It is believed to be the planet Eudora.

Fifty-Six Days without Food.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Bulla, who is undergoing a remarkable fast here, completed her fifty-sixth day without food to-day. This morning she swallowed half a teaspoonful of liquor. Prayers were said over the woman to-day. A strange feature of the case is that the woman has become several inches longer since her fast began. She now recognizes only her daughter.

Iron Works Resume.

READING, Pa., October 5.—The Keystone Iron works, in this city, resume operations to-day, after a continued stoppage of nearly two years. The resumption is due, it is said, to the improvement in the iron trade. The works, when running full, give employment to 100 hands.

A Prominent Democrat Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—A Times special from Bethlehem says: Samuel C. Shimer, a prominent democrat politician, and at one time state senator from this district, and also member of assembly from Northampton county, died to-day, after a lingering illness, aged 64 years.

Starving Herself to Death.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Bulla, who has not tasted food since August 10, is failing and her pulse is growing weak. She sleeps a great portion of the time. It is not thought that she can live more than two or three days.

A Labor Men's Meeting.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 5.—The annual General Assembly of the Knights of Labor opened here to-day. Grand Master Workman Powderly, of Scranton, Pa., presided. Over 200 delegates are present.

To Resume.

NEW CASTLE, Oct. 4.—The Ætna nail mills, owned and operated by P. L. Kimberly & Co., which have remained idle nearly a year, will be started up next Tuesday.

Denied.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—It is officially denied at the postoffice department that the postmaster at Buffalo, N. Y., has been either removed or suspended.

The Genesta to Sail To-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Genesta will sail to-morrow. It has been impossible to sell her. There were no bids above $20,000, and $30,000 was asked. Captains Gillespie and Carter and the crew will be the only person on board of her while crossing the Atlantic.

Montreal's Scourge.

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—Official returns at the health office to-day showed nineteen deaths from small-pox yesterday in this city. Of the 818 deaths in Montreal during the month of September, 714 were of children and 104 of adults.

Words of Warning—The Wise will Heed

The most causual observer is witness to the fact of a rapid increase of cigarette smoking by boys and youth.

All of the most eminent physicians and physiologists now agree in predicting a degeneracy of manhood in coming generations unless this tobacco habit is abandoned.

A lecturer in New York city recently stated as an illustration of its fearful growth that in 1869 only 1,000,000 cigarettes were sold in the United States, while last year 1,000,000,000 were made and sold. The great harm resulting from their use comes from the inhaling the oil of nicotine they contain and from the oiled paper in which they are sold, and the mischiefs which these occasion are very perceptible. In an able lecture recently delivered in Utica by Dr. J. P. Gray, the superintendent of the State Lunatic Asylum, on some of the preventible causes of insanity, this eminent authority classed the influence of tobacco and stimulants on the growth and development of youth and on their physical and mental health.

He stated emphatically that "no boy under eighteen should ever touch tobacco, and it would be better to say twenty. He wisely asks the direct question of the boys and young men, "Is it nothing to miss the higher chance of a sound vigorous manhood? Is it nothing to be stricken bodily and mentally, and be less than what you might be? to be old before your time?"

The writer hopes he may live to see the day when it shall not only be considered morally wrong, but by statute law illegal to sell tobacco to boys for any form of indulgence. To those who are so soon to be the men of our beautiful Bellefonte residence, I desire to say, let not tobacco in any shape touch your ruby lips. If you have done so, do so no more. Let that last be among the bygones forever. Save your money for better purposes. Save your precious time for more useful occupation. Save your health for the service of God, and be sure you shall never have sorrow for receiving this good counsel from one who loves you. Fathers, what is your example? There are little boys on every hand, who, seeing some of you, are saying, "If it is right for the men, is it so wrong for me?" Mothers, we hardly need to plead with you in behalf of your dear boys. Speak gently, and prayerfully, advise them to join the Home Guards of the White Ribbon Army.

HOME GUARD.

—The case that has been pending before the courts for some time, in which P. W. Keller was the plaintiff and F. S. Johnson, Isaac Shaffer and Joseph Powers were the defendants, was disposed of and finally at Pittsburg on Monday. The case is about the cutting of some 4,000,000 feet of timber and involves at least $30,000. An action for treble damages was brought. On the trial before Judge Williams, of Tioga county, presiding, directed a verdict for the defendant. The judgment was affirmed in the supreme court at Philadelphia last April and decided in Pittsburg on Monday. The attorneys for the plaintiff were Linn, of Williamsport; Orvis, of this place; Jenks, of Brookville, and Kress, of Lock Haven. For the defendants, Armstrong and Parsons, of Williamsport, and Cross of Lock Haven, had charge.

—Ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin was present on Monday evening at the first presentation of "The Mikado," in McCaull's Opera House, Philadelphia. It is one of Gilbert & Sullivan's comic operas and Sir Arthur Sullivan witnessed the performance, sitting in the Patti box. After the opera Gov. Curtin attended a supper at the Bellevue Hotel given in honor of Sir Arthur Sullivan, and which was graced by quite a distinguished company.

—The Pardee saw mill at Lock Haven, with a capacity of 8,000,000 feet of lumber per annum, has been bought by Alfred Mann and G. Kintzig.

Interesting Notes about Unionville.

UNIONVILLE, Oct. 1, 1885.

As this place has not been heard from for some time past, it seems necessary that some one should take up the pen in its behalf, for it is indeed a thriving little borough. In spite of the cry of "hard times," improvements are going on steadily, and the town is widening on the north and on the south, (many new buildings having been erected in the last few months); and the prospect is that many more will be built in the near future to fill the growing demand for habitations.

Capitalists might indeed do well to invest some of their spare means here in building, whilst material and labor are cheap. The excellent water, pure mountain air, beautifully shaded streets, and three physicians make it an exceedingly healthy place whilst the conveniences of churches, schools, stores, shops, mills and railroad are not a few.

Cider making is now in order and long before the sun makes its appearance in the morning, the rattle of wagons freighted with apples may be heard moving toward the cider mill at W. P. Fisher's, near town, where the steam grinder and powerful presses transform the load in a few minutes.

A new enterprise has lately been established here in the way of a bakery and ice cream saloon, which bids fair to be a success.

Two more souls were made happy in the personages of Mr. William Summers and Miss Mary Finch, who concluded a few days ago to make themselves one for future life.

The young and rising politician, C. M., who holds evening conversations at Griest's store, surprises the citizens with his political wisdom, and raises the ire of the Groverites who dislike to hear the past political history of their party quoted.

The new administration has not forgotten this place. Mr. John Bing has laid down the paint brush and engaged in Uncle Sam's postal service, while Mr. A. N. Russell has just retired from a long term of faithful service in that department. J.

—The game of base ball, on rollers, at the rink on Friday evening, was productive of more amusement than anything that has every occurred there. The Arion and Crescent clubs are evenly matched and the game was so close as to make it very interesting. It resulted in a score of 11 to 12 in favor of the Crescent nine. It is rumored that the Arion club are so confident that they can do better next time they will challenge their opponents to another game to take place soon.

—The twenty-first annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sunday-school will be held in the Lutheran church, Sunbury, beginning on the 20th of October. An interesting programme of exercises has been prepared.

Vitalized Phosphites.

HEALTH AND VIGOR FOR THE BRAIN AND NERVOUS SYSTEM

CROSBY'S VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

Composed of the Nerve giving Principles of the Ox-Brain and the Embryo of the Weat and Oat.

This is a standard preparation with all physicians who treat mental or nervous disorders. The formula is on every label. Its chemical composition is superintended by a professor of Chemistry.

As it is identical in its composition with brain matter, it is rapidly absorbed, and quickly relieves the depression from intellectual efforts, fatigue, loss of memory, or mental irritability.

Sleeplessness, irritation, nervous exhaustion, inability to work or study is but a brian-hunger—in urgent cases, brain starvation. This brain nutriment quickly feeds the hungry nerves and restores brain power. It is a cure for nervous disorders and debility in old or young.

BRAIN WORKERS NEED BRAIN FOOD.

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites should be taken as a Special Brain Food.

To build up worn out nerves, to banish sleeplessness, neuralgia and sick headache, I have not had a severe headache since I began its use, it was my great trouble before.—Dr. Guyon.

To promote good digestion.—Dr. Filmore.

To "stamp out" consumption.—Dr. Churchill.

To "completely cure night sweats."—John B. Quigley.

To repair the nerves that have been enfeebled by worry, depression, anxiety or deep grief.—Miss Mary Rankin.

To strengthen the intellect so that study and deep mental application may be a pleasure and not a trial.—E. M. Church.

To develop good teeth, glossy hair, clear skin, handsome nails in the young, so that they may be an inheritance in later years.—Bl. School Journal.

To enlarge the capabilities for enjoyment.—National Journal of Education.

To "make life a pleasure" "not a daily suffering." "I really urge you to put it to the test."—Miss Emily Faithfull.

To amplify bodily and mental power to the present generation and "prove the survival of the fittest" to the next.—Bismarck.

To restore lost powers and abilities.—Dr. Bull.

There is no other Vital Phos-phite, none that is extracted from living animal and vegetable tissues.

A Review of Events at Hecla.

MR. EDITOR: Thinking a few lines from this section would not come amiss for your always interesting journal, I enclose these items:

A very jovial crowd of young folks from your town arrived in this section on Wednesday evening, the 30th of September. They were met on the way by our famous rope walker, Shuman Zimmerman, who escorted them to their destination—the home of Mr. Thomas Fulton. The chief amusement was dancing which was continued until 12 or 1 o'clock, at which time they cheerfully accepted an invitation to partake of a bountiful repast spread for them.

The bending table was soon relieved of its load, the delicious viands disappearing at the rate of 40 knots an hour. Dancing was then indulged in till the crowing of Mr. Samuel Homan's rooster and the grey dawn of the morning peeping in at them from over the hills and mountains of Hecla warned them to a sense of their duty. They hurried on their wraps and hastened toward home, feeling, no doubt, that it was good to have been there. The only face familiar to us was that of your ex-collector, Mr. Samuel Brooks. They all behaved themselves in a manner becoming ladies and gentlemen. I am authorized to speak for our side and will say to all our visitors come again.

After a long intermission the doors and windows of Hecla Seminary are again to be thrown open and the voice of the merry school boy will be heard once more. Both parents and pupils are pleased with the prospect of the return of Mr. Mauer, last winter's teacher, to give instruction this year.

Herbert Rothrock, one of Bellefonte's dentists, is here hunting for squirrels and chestnuts.

A sweet pumpkin has been raised near here that weighs 127 pounds. John Sourbeck will now have to arouse himself, as this one is larger than his. Come and get it, John.

George Yarnell, of this place, has been quite ill, but is now, we understand, recovering.

The new steam thresher belonging to Mr. Lesh, of Zion, which goes booming along without the aid of horse power, puts us in mind of the railroad this valley so much needs and the roar of the locomotive that should have been heard long ere this.

Will Zimmerman can be seen daily at his home with oil, brick-dust, rags and brushes, cleaning and oiling that old Winchester rifle of his, preparatory to giving the Alleghenies a clean sweep. Dan Workman handles his flintlock musket with considerable skill, as it is reported he killed twenty squirrels in a half day. We cannot vouch for this, but believe it is true.

C. Rothrock, who has been a resident of Tyrone for some months past, is again at home in this vicinity. We understand that he is going to engage in the milling business with Mr. Bouse at Clintondale. The latter gentleman used to run our grist mill.

The chain of mountains which encloses our quaint little town presents a grand appearance in its beautiful Autumnal colors.

The time has at length stole upon us when the frost is seen on the pumpkin vine, when the katydid's mournful note and the cool breeze that comes creeping to us from the north warns us to fill the bins and shelves in our cellars, and to pile the Yule logs high and dry in our woodsheds. Then when we have Winter in earnest we can bid defiance to the fiercest blast. If the weather is not too bad you will hear from us again before Spring. From the man you don't meet every day.—I. K. E.

—There is so much systematic charity in our day that there is danger that we lose entirely the true, warm-hearted impulses of charity. Charitable agencies are so perfectly organized that deeds of individual charity are considered unnecessary and perhaps having a tendency to do harm. Individual appeals for charity are met with the austere reminder: "There is no occasion for such an appeal. Go to such an institution and you will receive all you want." Thus, people give regularly to these eleemosynary institutions, without realizing the real object which they are aiding and consequently not appreciating the blessing of charity. While it is right to give thus regularly and systematically, do not harden your hearts against the importunities of those around you.

Hardware AND Stove Establishment!

AT LAST WE HAVE IT—The First one that was ever started in Centre County.

Hardware in all its Branches, Stoves, Tinware, Oils, Paints, Glass, &c.,

SOLD FOR CASH ONLY, AND AT EXTREMELY LOW PRICES AND CLOSE PROFITS.

It is high time that our Cash Customers knew that in the past they have been paying for the time or credit others have been getting. We propose from this out to treat all alike, which none of our competitors can do who do a combined cash and credit business. We save all the cash discounts by paying cash ourselves and we give our patrons the same advantage. We mean what we say. Try us and see, if you have any doubt of the low prices.

OUR LINE IS TOO LARGE

to enumerate goods and prices, but our establishment has been known for years throughout this and adjoining counties, and the citizens know we always carry the largest stock.

Responsible parties ordering goods by mail, telephone or bearer, will receive them promptly, accompanied with the bill, but with the distinct understanding that the money or check will be sent by return mail.

Call and See Us.
Write for Prices.

The impression seems to be with some that we are closing out our business, but we wish it distinctly understood that such is not the case. We intend to keep a full and complete stock all the time and remain in the Hardware Business in Bellefonte. H. K. HICKS & BRO.

—The annual meeting of the One Hundred and Fifteenth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, began at Orbisonia, Huntingdon county, on Thursday. The visitors were hospitably entertained by the people of the town. The business meeting was held Friday, and also a meeting of Huntingdon county soldiers, to make arrangements for the reunion and encampment next fall.

—The death of Mrs. Anna Rimmer, wife of Mr. Richard Rimmer, who lives near the glass works, occurred at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. She had been ill for about two years and had suffered considerably. The funeral services took place at the late residence of deceased at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

—Rev. W. J. Chichester, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Germantown, has received and accepted a call to become pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Los Angeles, California. Mr. Chichester is known here as he has preached in the Bellefonte church on one or two occasions.

—The managers of the Skating Rink have been so kind as to offer the rink to the W. C. T. U. for the last of the series of temperance meetings, to occur on Thursday evening, when Major George A. Hilton will deliver his final address. This act is appreciated by the ladies.

Reformed Church.

The Holy Communion will be administered in the Reformed church on next Sunday morning. Preparatory services on Saturday afternoon at 2½ o'clock.

—There is a very large pumpkin in Valentine Smith's grocery window that is marked with a card 146¾. Query-Does this represent pounds, or is it a joke?

—Francis Murphy is conducting temperance meetings in Wilkesbarre.

The Greenback Chairman's Manifesto.

The present are hard times. Hard times for business men who are failing faster than ever known heretofore—hard times for farmers who cannot sell their crops for the net cost of production, and whose taxation is eating up the principal of their farms—hard times for laborers, two millions of whom are now out of employment, and all of those who are working doing so on reduced time and wages. These are hard times, too, for the owners of stock or mortgages in our railroads, whose monopolistic managers violate our State Constitution, and rob the people of the state with one hand and the stockholders of their companies with the other.

That there should be an idle man in this country, which is capable of supporting fourteen persons where we now have but one, and then not be more densely populated than France now is, shows that something is radically wrong.

That eight hundred thousand (800 000) workmen have banded themselves together in secret societies for their protection shows that something is radically wrong.

That there is increasing idleness among workers—that there are increasing Sheriff sales among farmers and mechanics, and increasing failures among business men, and that there is falling prices in farmer's productions shows that something radically is wrong.

That lock-outs, strikes and riots are prevalent where every natural condition for peace prevails, and that there is hunger and nakedness in a land whose barns are bursting with grain and whose manufactories are full of the material for clothing shows that something radically is wrong.

What is that something?

It is the Janus-faced Briarean-armed and devil-fish tentacled spirit and act of Monopoly. This spirit of Monopoly acts in a hundred different ways, but all with the one purpose of reducing the people to subjection to its will, and to absorbing all their earnings except the most meagre living which it can compel them to accept. This devil of monopoly has a heart, and that heart is the source of its life and power.

That heart is the Monopoly of Money.

Its representative is the National Banking System.

This money monopoly has brought about the present business depression by contracting the currency. The following table shows how the money of the people has been withdrawn from circulation among them, and hoarded in the U. S. Treasury, and the banks, at the instance of the gold-basis, banks-of-issue, National Banking System, and hence has left the people without an adequate currency to carry on their business; and hence the inability of debtors to pay their bills, and the consequent bankruptcy of merchants, and idleness of labor and lower prices of farm and factory products.

France has a monetary circulation of $60 per capita, England of $44, and Germany of $37. Our country with its greater intelligence, many money-centers, with its long lines of communication, all of which require a larger volume of money—in fact, has a very much smaller one.

Nominally we have a circulation of $1,500,000,000, or $25 per capita, of which but from $4.90 to $5.00 per capita is in circulation among the people, counting our present population at 60,000,000, which is as near as can be estimated.

WHAT IS LEFT FOR THE PEOPLE.

The September Treasury statement shows that there is locked up in the National Treasury	$523,244,724
Henry Clews & Co's Sept. monthly circular reports cash in New York Banks over	200,000,000
Boston Banks estimated,	100,000,000
Philadelphia Banks,	100,000,000
All other banks of the country	300,000,000
Total locked up	$1,223,244,724
Among the people	276,755,276
Total in the country,	$1,500,000,000

This leaves for the people but about $4.90 per capita, and yet the finance question is ruled out of politics.

This compilation from the official figures of the Treasury, and from the best financial house of New York shows the basis of the whole trouble. Farmers, merchants and workingmen will all find that they cannot have prosperous times until the general conditions will permit, and this will not occur while the money of the people is withdrawn from them by the superior power of the government.

The National Greenback Labor party takes open issue with the Republican and Democratic parties, under the first of which this infernal policy was inaugurated and under the latter of which it is continued with aggravated and increased force, and demands that the government abandon this false policy and restore the money to the people by paying the debt now due, and by liberal appropriations for all needed public works and improvements, and giving us free coinage of silver. Until this is done no permanent improvement can come, and in the interest of prosperity for all the people this party demands the adoption of these measures.

No argument need be made by us to show why the Demo—Rep head and tail of monopoly should die—let each tell the story of the other's life and its deserving of death and unfitness to live is fully established.

The result we aim at can only be accomplished by votes. As long as the people go on voting Democratic or Republican their Congressmen will pay no heed to the condition of affairs. They argue that the people express their dissent or satisfaction at the ballot box, and rightly so believe.

If this fails election shows no dissent from prevailing conditions President Cleveland will hold himself justified in continuing the Republican gold basis, anti-silver contraction policy, and it will be pushed with all the force of monopoly and within limited means.

Therefore in the interest of the whole people, we who have cast off the control of partisian prejudice should poll every vote possible of those who have been and are now with us, and each individual member of our party should make an earnest effort to get at least one voter from the old parties to vote for him. If this is done the next Congress will give us relief, and before the next Congressional election our idle men will be at work.

The office of State Treasurer being non-political all Republicans and Democrats, no matter how strong their partisan feelings toward each other, can this fall afford to vote with us for better times. A vote with us this year means "More Money and Less Misery," more work and less taxation, and by casting their votes with us they do not go over to the enemy they have been fighting for a generation. The Congressmen who want to be reelected cannot afford to have a dissatisfied constituency.

Let us all work with united efforts for this great purpose and for the upbuilding of this party, the only one in which the interest of laborers, farmers and mechanics are held to be superior to the fell purpose of monopoly. For prosperity for all the people. T. P. RYNDER.

A Newly Discovered Parable.

And the kingdom of Satan shall be likened unto a grain of tobacco seed, which, though exceeding small, being cast into the ground, grew and became a great plant, and it spread its leaves rank and broad, so that bugs and vile worms found an habitation thereon.

And it came to pass in the course of time that the sons of men looked upon it, and thought it beautiful to behold and much to be desired to make the lads look big and manly. So the sons of men put forth their hands and plucked the leaves thereof and did chew thereof, and some it made sick, and others to vomit filthily.

And it further came to pass that those who chewed it became unmanly and cried out, "We are enslaved, and cannot cease from chewing it!" And the mouths of all them were seized with violent spitting, and they did spit even in the ladies' parlors and in the house of the Lord of Hosts.

And the saints of the Most High were greatly plagued thereby. And it came to pass also that others of the sons of men snuffed it and were taken suddenly with fits, and they did sneeze insomuch that they had their eyes filled with tears, and did look exceedingly silly. And yet others most cunningly wrought the leaves thereof into rolls and did suck vehemently at one end thereof, and they did look very grave and calf-like, and the smoke of their torment ascended up forever and ever.

Miss Nevada Married.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Mlle. Emma Nevada was married to-day to Dr. Raymond Palmer, of Birmingham, England. The civil service took place at the English Embassy and the religious ceremonies at the Church of the Passionist Fathers. The bridesmaids were Misses Morris, Johnston, Everest and Tift, of America. Signor Salvini, the Italian tragedian, was the "best man." The attendance was large, American, English and Parisian fashionable society being well represented. The occasion was marked by much enthusiasm and the display of flowers and elegant costumes lent an air of gayety to the scene. The whole of the American colony and a large number of notabilities attended the ceremonies. Rev. Father Michael Watts Russell, of the Passion Order, rector of St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate, Hill, London, delivered an eloquent oration. A splendid string band furnished music for the occasion. Miss Laura Moore sang a solo with harp accompaniment. The wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Athene to the bridal party and guests.

The ceremony was very impressive. The chapel in the Avenue Soche was decorated with crimson and gold draperies, beautiful flowers and lighted tapers. Miss Moore, who sang solos, has a telling and sustained soprano voice. Madame Ristori's son and daughter were present. At the wedding lunch Signor Salvini placed a diamond bracelet upon the bride's wrist. Many congratulatory and eulogistic speeches were made.

Mme. Nilsson sent a telegram regretting her inability to attend, owing to the recent tragedy at Stockholm. The bride and bridegroom will sail for America on October 10. The wedding presents were splendid. The trousseau causes wonder and delight and is the talk of the hour. Seventy guests were invited to lunch after the wedding. The wedding cake, from London, was two yards high, weighed 150 pounds and cost $600. The bride will hereafter be styled Mme. Palmer-Nevada.

The Railroad Cases.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—Attorney General Cassidy, with his face wreathed in smiles, sauntered into parlor C, this morning, eager for the day's fray in his legal campaign against the great railroad corporations. Besides the great corporations' eminent array of counsel there were present Directors A. J. Cassatt, N. Parker Shortridge, J. Price Wetherill, Alexander M. Fox, H. H. Houston and others of the company. President Keim and other Reading officials were also interested listeners.

The first witness was Mr. A. J. Cassett, formerly a vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad company. He testified concerning the first he heard of the South Penn in connection with the pooling of the business of the trunk lines. Early in the year he had an interview in New York with Mr. Bliss, who represented Mr. William H. Vanderbilt, in relation to a plan for the pooling of the business of the trunk lines. It was said that the West Shore road stood in the way of any arrangement on the part of the New York Central. It was also agreed that the building of the South Penn was also a barrier to any harmonious arrangement between the great trunk lines.

Mr. Bliss told him that he believed that the South Penn could be easily got out of the way, because the builders were rather sick of the scheme. In a word, it was agreed by both that the abandonment of the building of the road was one of the essential points involved in the settlement of the railroad situation. It was then elicited that the next thing Mr. Cassatt heard was that the negotiations were progressing satisfactorily, and that the South Pennsylvania was to be purchased in the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad company. The witness heard very little about the Beech Creek transfer. Mr. A. J. Drexel and Mr. Roberts told him that the South Penn negotiations were progressing favorably. The interview with Mr. Bliss was at the latter's request.

A Battery of Boilers Explode.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 2.—Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning a battery of boilers at the Solar Iron Works of Clarke & Co., on Thirty-sixth street, exploded with disastrous effect. The night turn had just been relieved by the day force when the loud explosion startled the workmen, and that portion of the works in the vicinity of the boilers was filled with a cloud of death-dealing steam. Through the dense mist came shrieks and groans which notified the employes beyond harm's reach that a frightful calamity had overtaken a portion of their fellow-workmen.

As soon as the steam settled down a rush was made for the spot where the explosion occurred, when it was ascertained that the mud drum of the boiler had exploded and that the escaping steam had scalded seventeen men. Closer investigation showed that of this number fourteen were badly burned and three fatally scalded.

The explosion was caused by mud eating through the coating of the mud-drum. Pieces of the drum picked up were not more than a thirty-second part of an inch in thickness. Mr. Powers, chief engineer of the mill, says the boiler and mud-drum were inspected by the Hartford boiler insurance company two months ago, and then pronounced safe. He was certain all was right when he left last evening, and could only account for the explosion on the ground that the iron in the mud-drum was too weak to stand the pressure to which it was subjected.

Guarding Against Small-pox.

RICHFORD, Vt., Sept. 30.—Doctors Hamilton and Prime to-day began to inspect all passenger trains coming from Montreal and to vaccinate all passengers who have not been vaccinated. Trains are held at Abercome, Quebec, a town two miles from here, and the first town across the border. The physicians vaccinated sixteen persons on the noon express yesterday.

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—Mayor Manning has decided to follow Montreal and will in a few days issue a proclamation for compulsory vaccination.

Taking Testimony.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—The taking of testimony in Attorney General Cassidy's now famous proceeding to enjoin the purchase by the Pennsylvania railroad company of the Beech Creek and South Pennsylvania railroads drew together a distinguished array of Blackstone's followers in parlor C, at the Continental hotel this morning. Messrs. MacVeagh and Logan represented the Pennsylvania railroad company, Gendell Cassidy, Snodgrass, Nead and Messrs. the state, Lyman D. Gilbert and ex-Senator Gordon the South Pennsylvania railroad, and M. E. Olmstead and S. R. Peale the Beech Creek railroad.

The first witness was E. C. Knight, who testified that he had paid into the enterprise $76,000. He described how he came to become one of the syndicate; how he learned of the transfer to the Pennsylvania railroad, and referred to conferences with Mr. Vanderbilt. The latter headed the list of subscribers with five million dollars, and the other subscribers were Messrs Mills, Hostetter Carnegie, Bagaley, Oliver, Lippencott, Williamson, Gowen, Lewis and Hutchinson, and the witnesses. Mr. Twombly was treasurer of the syndicate. The witness was a subscriber in the Beech Creek company for $25,000.

Mr. Knight, on cross-examination, said that he expected to receive $200,000 in bonds and $160,000 in stock for his subscription to the South Pennsylvania, but did not not know what he was to get for his Beech Creek subscription. Upon the conclusion of Mr. Knight's testimony Henry Lewis took the witness stand.

Hard Luck.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—There was an indescribable scene of tumultuous cheering and hat swinging at the White Stocking ball park this afternoon at the close of the ninth inning when it was certain that victory had again perched on the banners of the home team, giving them an almost undisputed claim to the National league championship pennant. They defeated the New York stalwarts by the score of 2 and 1, thus giving the Chicagos a lead of four games in the race for the championship. The attendance was eleven thousand, despite a sky which constantly threatened rain. The Chicagos scored their runs in the fourth and seventh innings, both of which were earned. In the fourth inning Dalrymple made a two base hit and scored on Gere's safe single. In the seventh inning, with two men out, Pfeffer drove the ball over the right field fence for a home run. The New Yorkers scored their run in the ninth inning, when the shadows were thickening very fast, and Anson missed two balls thrown at him which he was unable to see. In this inning Connor was given first base on balls. Ewing struck out, Gillespie reached first and Connor third on Anson's failure to see the ball thrown at him by Pfeffer. Connor then scored on Anson's muff of another ball thrown by Pfeffer, but the side was retired without any additional runs being made.

Married to Her Coachman.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 29.—A sensation has been created by the marriage of a wealthy maiden lady to her coachman. The bride's name is Anna McFarland, and John Barks is the name of the happy man. Miss McFarland's father was formerly a tanner. He married into a wealthy family. He went to Michigan, engaged in the lumber business and became quite wealthy. He died a few years ago, and his daughter, Anna, returned to her former home in Caledonia, about fifteen miles west of this city. She fell heir to something like a hundred thousand dollars. She purchased her father's former residence and provided herself with horses, carriages, and servants. She engaged as coachman Barks, who is not tall or good-looking. Soon an attachment sprang up between them, greatly to the astonishment of the lady's circle of friends. Her brother and other relatives came from Michigan to prevent the match, but could not. The couple came to this city, and engaged board at a boarding house. Last week they were privately married, but the news did not leak out until to-day. The bride is about 30 years of age, while the groom is only 20.

A Visitor from Space.

CLAYSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 1.—The aerolite or meteoric stone, which caused the loud detonations heard throughout the greater part of Washington and Allegheny counties on Saturday last, fell upon the farm of Mr. Buckland, in Jefferson township, near the West Virginia line. Ellis Jones, a mail carrier, saw the aerolite in its flight through the heavens. His horse suddenly stopped, and he heard a noise like the roaring of the wind. Looking up, he saw moving high above him with incredible velocity a huge mass which he describes as resembling a great coal of fire as large as a barn. There appeared to be attached to it an immense flame of a deeper color than the coal, which tapered off into a dark tail with a sinuous outline. All in a moment, Mr. Jones says, the noise ceased, the fire-like appearance, the flame, and black tail disappeared, and in their stead the meteor assumed a blue-white hue, which it retained until it passed out of sight.

When the stone fell it broke into three pieces. It is grayish in color, with a tendency to red in streaks, and is more than thirty feet square. The people are flocking to see the wonder in great numbers.

Clinton County Indorsing Beaver.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Sept. 29.—At the Republican County Convention to-day Josiah Candor, of Lock Haven, was nominated for Register and Recorder, John Chatham for Jury Commissioner and Dr. F. P. Ball for Coroner. The office of Prothonotary was left vacant for the county committee to fill if deemed best. Thomas Reed was chosen county chairman and resolutions indorsing General James A. Beaver for Governor were unanimously adopted.

There is no use in Fighting Nature. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy does nothing of that kind. It does not make the sufferers who trust it worse under the pretense of doing them good. It acts tenderly and in sympathy with what Nature herself is trying to accomplish. Do you have trouble with your digestion, your liver or your kidneys? Does rheumatism pain and rack you? Is your head thick and heavy? It will charm away these ailments almost ere you are aware.

The Clearfield Races—An Accident.

Special to the Tribune of Altoona.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 2.—The attendance at the fair yesterday was much larger than any day since it opened. Two races were advertised to come off. In one of the races a blind trotter was being sent around the track at a rapid gait, when the sulky to which the animal was attached collided with another sulky. The driver of the first rig was thrown out and the horse, driver and sulky rolled down the bank. Quite miraculously the driver escaped serious injury and to-day is able to sit up. After the accident the wildest confusion prevailed and the police were powerless to keep the crowd from rushing into the track. Order was finally restored and the race finished. There had been four entries for it, and it was won by Little Nell. Time—2:47, 2:53, 2:54.

The second race was won by Whirlwind. Time—2:48, 2:50½, 2:49. The bicycle race by two sports—Messrs. Burchfield and Hunter—was won by Burchfield.

The rain interfered with the racing of to day. Mr. Shaw's horse won the trotting race. Time, 2, 38½, 2:36, 2:41¼. The running race between General Wiley and Cinderella was won by the latter. Time—1:59, 1:57½.

Elopements and Marriage of Children.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 1.—Social circles are agitated over the elopement and marriage of two children whose parents are prominent members of Greensburg society. A strict license law went into effect in this State to-day, and it seems that the young couple, concluding to take advantage of the two days' grace allowed before the law was operative, went to Pittsburg on Tuesday, and were married by a Justice of the Peace. The happy bridegroom is Willie J. Goshey, lately a messenger boy for the Bankers' and Merchants' Telegraph Company, and the son of H. J. Goshey, a wealthy liveryman. The bride is the only daughter of J. M. Laird, editor of the Greensburg Argus, and the adopted daughter of the Tenth Regiment, N. G. P. She is the girl for whom that regiment nearly lynched a man at the late encampment at Conneaut Lake for insulting her. The combined ages of the couple would hardly reach thirty years.

Turkish Troops.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A dispatch from Constantinople states that an investigation recently ordered by the sultan in Adrianople, with a view to learning the available force of that province and the condition of the commissary, etc., shows a deplorable state of affairs among the soldiers stationed there. It had been supposed that the force numbered fully 15,000 men, but investigation reveals the fact that there is not half that number, the others having deserted. Those that remain were found to be shoeless, and wholly without uniforms of any kind. The cavalry force, consisting of 2,500 men, have only 400 horses, all told, and these in such poor condition as to be worthless. The cavalry cannot be moved. The investigation into the condition of the Turkish forces of Adrianople, it is learned, was ordered immediately after the dismissal of Ghazi Osman, the late Turkish minister of war.

Statistics of a Plague.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 1.—The Plymouth relief committee have prepared and issued a tabulated statement, showing that during the recent epidemic there were 1,143 cases, of which 107 proved fatal. The expense entailed by the epidemic was $59,100; loss in labor, $60,020. The total loss to the town is estimated at $90,655.

A Delegate for Beaver in Elk.

RIDGWAY, Pa., Sept. 29.—At the Elk County Republican Convention to-day Dyson Rishell was nominated for District Attorney and E. M. Rogers for Jury Commissioner. J. M. Gaosh was elected State delegate and instructed to vote for General Beaver for Governor. B. E. Cartwright was elected county chairman.

He Got Six Cents.

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—Jonas H. Rowe brought suit for $25,000 damages against the Free Press for the publication of charges made in the proceedings that had been entered for divorce. The Free Press copied from the court records. To-day the jury brought a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for six cents damages.

Attention, Railroad Men!

"I suffered for more than a year with indigestion. I was very bilious, occasionally have a dumb chill, followed by fevers, which prostrated me. I took Simmons Liver Regulator, and am thoroughly satisfied that it is all that it is recommended for indigestion and bilious complaints, for mine was certainly a stubborn case. Many of my friends speak of it, and they all agree that it possesses all the virtues you claim for it.

"A. H. HIGHTOWER,
Conductor C. R. R., Ga."

A new toy that will interest the children is the "house that Jack built." It is a house with eight windows. Eight knobs are placed at the base of the house, and as these are struck with a ball rolled by the players one of the celebrities of Jack's house appears at each corresponding window.

Barnum's Bad Luck Again.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 1.—While Barnum's show, which arrived here this morning, was unloading, John Montgomery, a town boy, was pinched between two cars, crushing his foot and ankle in a frightful manner. Later, while the main tent was being erected, the centre pole fell, breaking a leg of one showman and another's jaw, besides other severe bruises.

He was reading a novel, and his white plug hat rested on the seat beside him. He did not notice the stoppage of the train, nor realize that an old lady was searching for a seat. His mind finally drifted off the story to find her snugly ensconsed beside him.

"Madam, I have a hat in this seat," he cautiously observed.

"Don't doubt it, sir," she replied, as she disposed of her satchel.

"And you probably sat down on it."

"Shouldn't a bit wonder."

"In which case the hat must be completely wrecked."

"It certainly must, and therefore there is no need of my getting up until they call out my station. Please hist up the winder. I allus did like the smell of coal smoke."

—The Bellefonte Literary Society met Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It was called to order by the President elect C. E. Schaeffer, and the first regular business of the re organization—the general election—was attended to, which resulted in the election of W. H. Keller for President, Thomas B. Hutchison, Vice President; Walter Lembkey, Secretary; Edgar Burnsides, Treas.; Frank Graw, Critic; Francis Speer, Chaplain; Thos. Mitchel, Monitor; C. L. Gates, Corresponding Sec.; and C. E. Schaeffer, James Hughes, Jr., and Thomas Hutchison an Executive Committee. After the election and installation of the new officials, the the report of ex-officials, and the reading of a report of the exercises for the next meeting, the society adjourned to meet in one week.

—A few bunches of the most perfect and beautiful white grapes we have ever seen were sent to Mr. Jno. Wagner by the Glenn Brothers nursery and vineyard, which he represents. We tasted them and found them exceedingly luscious and tempting. He is exhibiting the perfect bunches of grapes to some of the property owners who will doubtless give him an order for vines of a similar kind, as those who cultivate these grapes will have the finest in the country.

—The Millheim Journal, in referring to the new schedule on the railroad from Montandon to this place says: "We could not wish for a handier arrangement and many people will avail themselves of this chance to take a short trip to Bellefonte and back again."

Sherman's Demand for Justice.

Senator Sherman, in his great speech in Ohio, stated clearly the case of the Republican party against the solid Democratic South. In concise but vigorous language he pictured the wrong done to the Northern voter by the practical suppression of the colored vote in the Southern States. His assertion that thirty-eight Presidential electors and thirty-eight Congressmen, based upon the six million colored people in that section, are stolen by the Democratic party by "frauds as mean as any that have been committed by penitentiary convicts," is only a plain, unvarnished statement of facts. So clear and incontrovertible is the evidence to sustain this position, that no Democratic paper or orator ventures to deny it. They studiously avoid discussing the question, and attempt to cloud the vision of their readers by denouncing any attempt to resurrect the bloody shirt.

This is the issue now most prominently before the people. It must be settled upon the basis of right and justice before any other question can be decided. The depth to which the Republican party has been stirred by the injustice done in the South is evidenced by the fact that the subject occupies a conspicuous place in every Republican platform adopted in convention this year. The party has irrevocably set its face towards righting this wrong, and it cannot be duped into turning to the right hand or to the left. There can be no compromise with bulldozers and ballot-box stuffers, and the Republican party can be deterred no more from demanding its just rights in this instance by cries about the bloody shirt than the Union army was kept back from the field by the derision heaped by Copperheads upon "Lincoln's hirelings."

Fighting off Death.

Conductor Frazer, of the International and Great Northern Railroad tried to fight off death a few hours in order that he might see his wife once more. He had been shot by a tramp and had been taken to Tyler, Texas, in a dying condition.

"Help me fight back this cruel death, boys, until my wife gets here," said the dying man, cheerily.

The doctors had already told him he could live but a few hours. With a calm courage he heard the verdict and called all of his wonderful force to his aid in the struggle to live until his wife arrived.

"Tell me exciting stories," he said to the boys around his bed, "I must make this run till she comes."

And the boys did laugh and tell big stories, poor fellows, when their stout hearts were filled with regret. The hours sped rapidly by; the merry voice of the conductor grew fainter and fainter, but his courage never faltered.

A telegram from his wife, in answer to one sent to her a few hours before, was brought into the room and read. She was coming on a special train; the road was cleared for her passage and with lightning speed her train was annihilating distance. What a race! A young woman in the full flush of love and a new life pitted against the king of terrors. The news nerved Frazer for a moment and his efforts to keep up were renewed. A little later another telegram.

"Old boy," whispered a brakeman "she will be here in an hour."

"Turn me over, boys," he said.

It was done. He whispered to an attendant:

"Charley, I cannot run on this schedule. Goodbye!"

He was dead.

"I was never exactly buried alive," said an old clerk, recounting his experiences, "but I once worked a week in a store that did not advertise. When I came out my head was almost as white as you now see it. Solitary confinement did it."

An Indiana farmer who wanted his neighbors to remember him after he was dead, grew six acres of Canadian thistles and sent them flying through four counties. He is remembered.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—October—how do you like it?

—Pumpkins are immense in size this year.

—Centre Hall citizens are pleased with the new railroad schedule.

—The new hotel building at Penn Cave will be completed this fall.

—The Spring Mills M. E. Sunday-school picnicked at Penn Cave on Saturday.

—The library of the Y. M. C. A. is excellent and increasing in popularity.

—Mr. E. C. Humes is beautifying his elegant bank block with fresh paint.

—The Snow Shoe Band was so fortunate as to make about $120 by their picnic last week.

—The great base ball games played last week in Chicago attracted much attention in Bellefonte.

—Ice cream tastes good in the middle of the day and oysters are equally tempting in the morning and evening.

—Mrs. Albright, of Millheim, is suffering from injuries received from a vicious cow which recently attacked her.

—Wednesday night was the great wedding night in all parts of the State. It was quite a bonanza for the ministers.

—Coburn and Lemont look almost like new places, so great a change has taken place there since the opening of the new railroad.

—The car of Charley Glenn, the photographer, is now located at Spring Mills. Charley is taking pictures while the sun shines.

—Mr. Wilkinson has some lamps for sale which are evidently destined to supersede all other kinds of illumination—even electricity.

—Musser & Smith are erecting a new building for a hardware store in Millheim. The building material will be dry-pressed brick.

—Interesting harvest home services were held in the Boalsburg Reformed church on Sunday, Sept. 27. Rev. Groh delivered the sermon.

—The Presbytery of Huntingdon will meet in the East Kishacoquillas Presbyterian church, near Reedsville, next Tuesday, at 2 o'clock p. m.

—The alterations and improvements in Sechler's grocery store have been completed and add greatly to the appearance and convenience of the store.

—The Acme base ball nine desire us to state that it was necessary to postpone the game with the Boalsburg nine one week and it will occur next Saturday.

—It is generally conceded that the New York base ball nine played the best game in Chicago, although the umpire helped the Chicago nine to victory.

—A marriage which occurred at Curtin's works on September 15 was that Mr. Geo. Harpster, formerly of Centre Hall, and Miss Emma Young of the former place.

—We imagine that the first in-coming train over the new railroad, last Thursday, narrowly escaped running off the track at this place by reason of a switch which was turned wrong. The ever-vigilant engineer noticed the misplaced switch, stopped the train and it was soon in proper position.

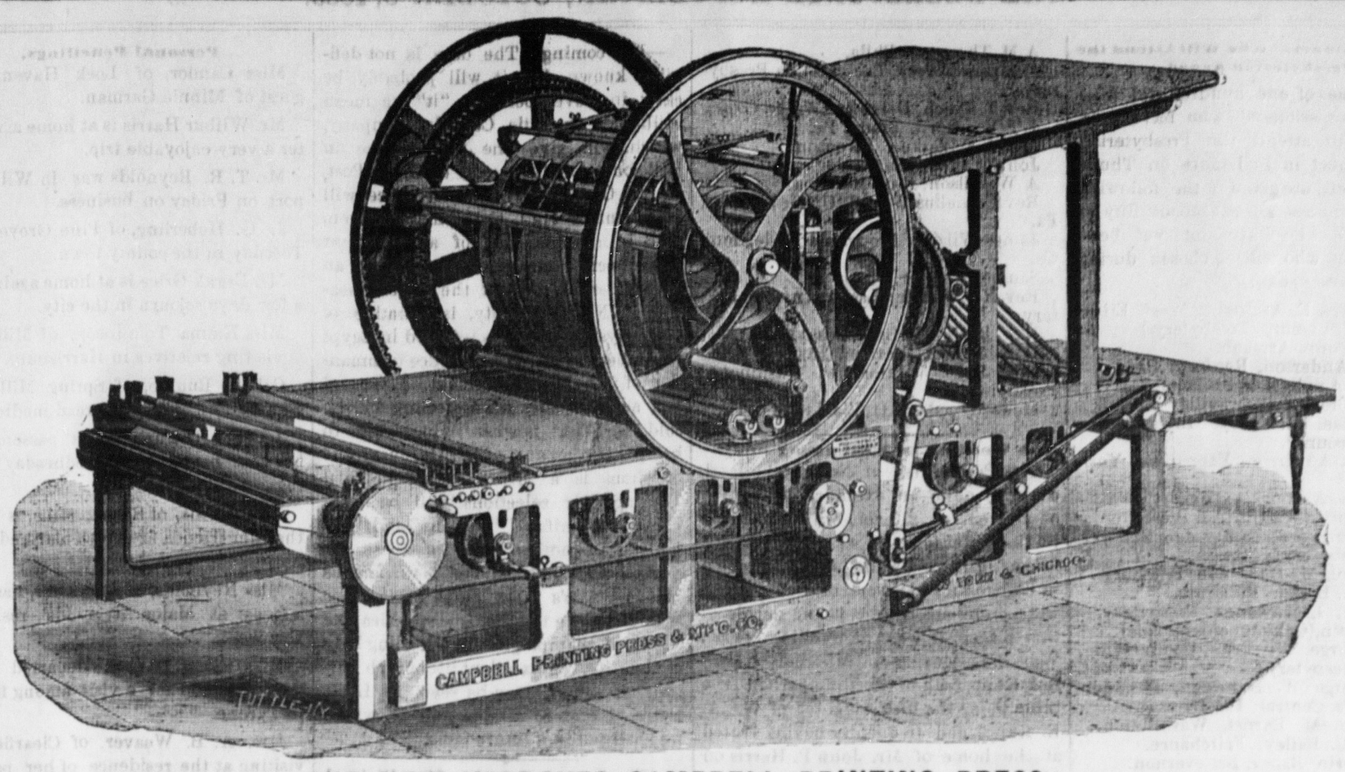
—The act of the Legislature relating to marriage licenses went into effect Thursday, 1st inst. It provides that no person within this Commonwealth shall be joined in marriage until a license shall have been obtained from the Clerk of the Court in the county where the marriage is performed.

—Permit us to make only one correction to the assertions contained in Commissioner Griest's card in the Watchman, on Friday. He says our "stupendous mind grappled with 'Old Noah' for hours." Oh, no; Brother Griest, we assure you that five minutes contest with the venerated Noah sufficed us. Correctness is essential in everything, you know.

—The grand distribution of prizes to be made by Sunday Grit, of Williamsport, will take place at the Academy of Music, that city, on Wednesday, November the 25th. The journalists of Pennsylvania will conduct the affair and all will be entertained at the City Hotel, free. It will be a grand occasion, for which all are indebted to the enterprising editor of Sunday Grit.

—The Young Men's Christian Association met on Friday evening to elect officers for the ensuing year, the election resulting as follows: For President, Gen. Jas. A. Beaver, Vice President, D. M. Lieb; Recording Secretary, J. C. Weaver; Treasurer, George L. Potter; Executive Committee, F. Potts Green, W. S. Zeller, C. U. Hoffer, Dr. J. H. Rhone, J. W. Gephart, Jas. H. Potter, John Olewine, Abram S. Valentine.

—We had long been of opinion that the bill providing for the election of tax collectors in the several boroughs and townships of the State had finally passed the legislature last winter. This belief had its source in the statement seen in many of our exchanges, although this journal has not referred to it. Our attention was atttracted to it recently and by reference to page 2496 of Legislative Record we noticed that the bill, on final vote, was defeated by 92 nays to 52 yeas. Therefore, tax collectors will be appointed in the old way.



OUR NEW IMPROVED CAMPBELL PRINTING PRESS.

The above cut represents the new press on which the enlarged REPUBLICAN is now printed. It is a valuable piece of machinery, has the very latest improvements and will do the work more speedily and satisfactorily than the press formerly in use.

The enlargement consists in the increased width of the columns, which formerly were only 12 ems in width, but are now 13 ems wide—the standard measure. This makes a handsome column and improves the appearance of the entire page.

This enlargement is but the precursor to other equally important improvements. We have no doubt our readers will appreciate this effort to give them a better journal. Throughout the entire history of the REPUBLICAN it has received nothing but kind treatment from all. It hopes to deserve a continuance of this courtesy.

A Specimen Tramp

A peculial individual found his way into REPUBLICAN office on Thursday afternoon. His complexion is dark and his countenance bears evidence of dissipation while his clothing looks as if it might have come out of the Ark. We would not, of course, cast any reflection on these antiquated garments, were we of opinion that the wearer of them is a worthy individual. "What can I sell you to-day, boss?" is what he inquired. "Nothing," we replied; "because we have no money, and you would not want to sell anything to a person who has not the necessary money to pay for it." He sat down to meditate, meanwhile informing us, in a muttering manner, that he was once a journalist and by ill fortune had been cast adrift on the wide and cruel world. This did not lead us to reflect that we, too, might some day find ourself in the same condition, although to touch our heart by this information was evidently his deep design. Then he asked us for some white paper on which to write. We were generous and handed him a few sheets, quite willing that he should dash off for us an editorial on the subject of "One more unfortunate," thus relieving his burdened mind and giving us a tale of woe told by one who has had actual, living experience and, consequently, very vivid and effective. But he didn't. He asked us where we had our laundry work done. We answered: "We commit it to the care of some worthy woman, sir; or else send it to Harris' laundry" At this his face fell a quarter of an inch, as we discovered by actual measurement with our foot rule. "I wanted to sell you this recipe for polishing collars and cuffs," he at length remarked; "but"—here his face brightened again and went up to its former altitude—"I have a recipe for catching fish. Do you ever fish?" We answered that our business never permitted indulgence in such sports, and that the inhabitants didn't encourage us to try our luck lest the streams might be depopulated at once. "Well, don't try to catch any trout with that," was his warning as he shoved the invaluble recipe toward us, "or you might succeed and be fined. Advance me a few cents on that, with which to buy dinner, and it is yours." We looked in his face and read the very depths of his bleared eyes. We remember that a year ago we saw him in our office and at that time he told the same story and imposed on us to the extent of "a few pennies," which he probably spent for "fire water." We reflected that the very few pennies in our pocket must be spent for something to eat, and that we must be the eaters, and, with a stony glance, we refused him, and he retired.

Poor fellow, if his recipes are valuable we advise the laundrymen and anglers to pursue him, run him down and obtain them at any price; but, so far as we are concerned, we abjure him and all he has for sale.

Centre Hall Cuttings.

Charlie Bollinger will erect a new shop on Church street.

A period of growth is just dawning on Centre Hall.

Hud Love is now occupying Mrs. Sarah Foster's house near the post office. He moved there on Thursday.

Rev. F. Adams, of Port Royal, who two years ago was pastor of the M. E. congregation in Centre Hall, was recently severely injured by being thrown from a buggy.

—There is a change in the Prothonotary's office. We do not refer to the fact that the locations of the desks have been altered, and the interior improved with new paper and paint, but to the fact that Mr. Lew Shaffer has vacated the position of clerk, which he filled so ably, and Mr. Will Ludwig, a very accommodating and capable gentleman, is performing the duties of the position.

Three Weddings.

Two of Bellefonte's young people got ahead of the marriage license law on Wednesday. They went to Williamsport on the morning train and were wedded at the Park Hotel in that city. The contracting parties were Miss Mollie Powers, daughter of Chief Burgess Jno. Powers, and Mr. Will Brachbill, son of John Brachbill. The bride is a handsome, stylish and accomplished young lady. She is a sister of Mrs. Sheriff Walker. The groom is good-looking, intelligent and a very excellent business man, being a member of the furniture firm of John Brachbill's Sons, Spring St. They have our hearty wishes for their happiness.

In addition to the notice given above, we take pleasure in giving a few more particulars of the wedding of Mr. Will Brachbill and Miss Mollie Powers on Wednesday. The event was solemnized in the Park Hotel, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. Winters, of the Presbyterian church, being the officiating clergyman. Sheriff Miles Walker and his agreeable wife, of this place, were present. Mr. and Mrs. Brachbill went to Philadelphia on their honeymoon trip.

Mr. J. H. Derr, of the Electric Light works, was married on Wednesday evening to Miss Annie Wian. The happy event occurred at the home of Mrs. Wian on the Beaver farm, Rev. Chas. T. Steck officiating. Congratulations.

A wedding occurred on the 29th of September, at the home of Mr. Valentine Smith on Thomas street. The happy contracting parties were Mr. Lewis C. Bolopue, of Blanchard, this county, and Miss Nettie C. Peifer, of Bellefonte. Rev. Chas. Steck, (who, by the way, seems to have a monopoly of the weddings), was the officiating clergyman. Miss Peifer is a sister of Mrs. Valentine Smith, and is a very estimable young lady.

A Gunner's Guide.

Apropos of the approach of the gunning season is the "Paradise for Gunners and Anglers," a neat little pamphlet issued by the Passenger Department of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Co., descriptive of the gunning and fishing resources of the Delaware and Maryland peninsula. The book treats of the game and fish of this section, their haunts and habits, the localities they frequent, and gives extracts from the game laws of the region, and, in fact, all the information a sportsman could desire. It is embellished with engravings of game and fish, and contains an excellent map, showing the watercourses, roads, and railways of the section. It is a complete manual for the gunner or angler, who find his sport in one of the best game stocked portions of the Atlantic States. The book is distributed gratuitously, and may be procured by addressing James R. Wood, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, Philadelphia, Pa,

Three Items from Eagleville.

Miss Barnes, of Snow Shoe, was recently the guest of her very intimate friend, Miss Mary Glossner, in our town.

Misses Mary and Annie Clark are making preparations to go to Lock Haven to school. They will be very bright students.

Mr. J. A. Quigley is doing quite a prosperous business this fall and, consequently, is a happy man.

—We won't have any more to say on this Court House temperance question. At one time we thought we would, but when Charley Hewes told us at noon Friday that he will take Commissioner Griest's side of the discussion, we concluded to throw up the sponge at once.

—The Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania met in Rebersburg yesterday, continuing over Sunday, the 11th.

Information for Sportsmen.

In response to numerous requests we give below a synopsis of the game laws of Pennsylvania.

Deer may be killed from October 1st to December the 15th. The killing of a fawn when in its spotted coat is unlawful at any time. Deer must not be pursued with dogs nor killed while in the water.

Squirrels may be killed between September 1st and January 1st.

Rabbits may be killed between November 1st and January 1st.

Wild turkeys may be killed between October 12th and January 1st.

Plover may be killed between July 15 and January 1.

Woodcock may be killed between July 4 and January 1.

Quail may be killed between October 15 and January 1.

Pheasants and prairie chicken may be killed between October 1 and January 1.

Rail and reed birds may be killed between September 1 and December 1.

Web-footed wild fowls may be killed between September 1 and January 1, but only upon Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

It is unlawful at any time to kill wild pigeons upon their nesting ground.—Altoona Times.

—The Bellefonte Literary Society which held its meetings in the Y. M. C. A. hall, last winter, proving so beneficial to many young men, met Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock for reorganization. This society admits young men of fifteen years or over, and under thirty-five years. Although the attendance, last winter, was very good, an effort will be made to render it yet more attractive during the coming season. The inducements of a literary character will be greater; hoping thus to counterbalance attractions which are hurtful in their tendency. The exercises will consist of essays, orations, declamations, select readings, debate and extemporaneous speaking. Every young man who can should avail himself of the opportunity of attending.

—From Mr. John Corrigan, of State College, we have received a sample box of the California Concord grapes grown in the College vineyards. The vines are cared for by the students in the horticultural department, under Prof. Buckhout. The samples prove the grapes the best in the State. We are pleased to notice that the new railroad schedule which went into effect Thursday renders it very ly convenient to pay short visits to the College. For instance, the visitor can leave Bellefonte at 1 o'clock, reach Lemont, the nearest station, at 1.30 p. m., go from there to State College in college hack, and return in time to take the train which passes Lemont at 5:30 p. m. The hack fare for the round trip to and from the College is only 50cts.

Services Gratefully Remembered.

At a private meeting held by the Blanchard Y. W. C. T. U. on Friday evening, Sept. 18th, a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. John Liggett, of Beech Creek, and to Mr. Will Snyder, of Racine, Wis., for their kindness in assisting us with our festival and entertainment, given in Quigley's Hall, at Eagleville, on Saturday evening, Sept. 5th, 1885.

COMMITTEE.

—Those who are dissatisfied with the present schedule on the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont R. R. are indeed difficult to please.

—The expenses of keeping the poor of the Borough of Bellefonte for the month of September amount to $119. This includes fuel, clothing and provision.

J. M. KEICHLINE, O. P.

—A fistic encounter on Thursday afternoon in one of Bellefonte's down-town saloons made things a little lively for awhile.

—Quite an alarming accident occurred Friday night on the turnpike, at a bridge nearly opposite Wallace's brick yard, above Milesburg depot. Mrs. Packer, of Marsh Creek, was returning to Snow Shoe Intersection with Mrs. Zeigler in a buggy, having been on a visiting tour of several days; becoming benighted and it being very dark, upon their approach to the brick kiln, they were blinded by the light, missing the bridge, which is too narrow at all events and miserably constructed; horse, buggy and occupants were precipitated into the gully next the railroad. Mrs. Zeigler escaped with some bruises, but Mrs. Packer received injury to one hand and arm, and a terrible gash cut into the side of her head, as she evidently struck a stone in falling. Mr. Wallace and his men were instantly on the spot, and very kindly rendered all the aid they could, with the neighbors near at hand. Dr. Grove was summoned, who succeeded in stopping the copious flow of blood and dressed the wound. Both ladies were doing as well as could be expected next morning.

Hunting Heirs to a Fortune.

Descendants of the great English jurist, Sir Matthew Hale, in this country are making diligent inquiry for two members of the family, or their heirs, who lived in Huntingdon about a hundred years ago, and have written to the author of the "History of Huntingdon County" for assistance in the search. The two persons wanted are James Hale, who marrried Catharine Baird, and his son John, who married Sarah Blowan.

The recovery of the great fortune, descending from Sir Matthew, is said to depend upon the link in the chain that will be supplied by the finding of members of this branch of the family. It is known by persons in Huntingdon county that James Hale lived there about the year 1790, but no information can be obtained as to his descendants.—Altoona Times.

—There are very few dry goods stores met with even in the larger cities that are as handsome and attractive as that of S. & A. Loeb since the recent alterations and improvements.

$500,000 a Year.

Statement of the American, National and United States and Canada Express Companies, Troy, N. Y.

The strength of Rome lay not in her multitude, nor in her grain-laden fleets. These were elements of strength, but her never-failing resources lay in the self-control and discipline of Roman soldiers. Discipline—it is the very soul to all the wonderful meaning possessed by the word "veteran." Mr. Benedict, of Troy is a veteran in the express business. "Thirty three years," he said to your reporter, "I've stood at this desk." It is the discipline of years of experience which gives him the position he holds in the trust and esteem of these three great corporations. "We have a business of $500,000 a year, and I've been absent from this office hardly a month in all that time, although I must confess that many times I've worked here when suffering great pain, for I have been troubled all my life with biliousness and dyspepsia. My system had become so reduced and weak that I had no appetite, and my digestion wholly disordered. I've tried various remedies, but almost two years ago I happened to hit upon Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. After using only one bottle or so I began to feel stronger in every way. The great difficulty has been with my digestion, but this seems to regulate it perfectly. I have, sir, great faith in Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. I have bought and given a great deal of it to the poor around here; those, you know, who have no money to buy medicine of any kind, for there are a great many troubled with bilious diseases and suffer on without aid. I always keep FAVORITE REMEDY in the house. I consider it the best medicine for the blood in the market. Well I must attend to this matter for the western part of the city. Say, you tell the Doctor I am coming down to Rondout to see him in August. I want to know him." I left the veteran, still at his post, rejoicing in health and grateful to Dr. Kennedy. 17 36 1y

Local Department.

—The attendance at church on Sunday was very small.

—The 28 clowns in Barnum's circus amused the people of Altoona on Tuesday.

—The bridge over the mill race at High street was white with frost and ice Monday morning.

—Merchant Ed. Garman believes in keeping his brain cool and will wear a straw hat all winter.

—A new stone pavement is to laid in front of the Presbyterian church before the meeting of the Synod.

—Neat balconies now project from the new brick buildings on the corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets.

—We understand that the Huntingdon Presbytery was in session in Reedsville, Mifflin county, on Tuesday.

—Henry Boyle, a resident of Renovo, was instantly killed on the railroad near Wilcox on Monday morning.

—The steam heat is now infusing a grateful warmth to the dwellings which have been fitted with the requisite apparatus.

—The fires were lighted Monday afternoon in the furnace at the glass works and that institution is now in operation for the season.

—An old farmer predicts a long and severe winter, "because so much of the fruit dropped from the trees this fall before it was ripe."

—Mrs. Jane Mann, of Boiling Springs, died on Wednesday morning at 7.30 o'clock. She was a lady who was universally beloved and respected.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Garman began housekeeping on Saturday in rooms in "Merchants Square," the new buildings on the corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets.

—Rev. Dr. Clerc, of Philipsburg, will officiate in the Episcopal church, this place, next Sunday, administering the communion. Rev. Mr. Robinson will officiate in the Philipsburg church.

—Since the Huntingdon court house was not considered too good for Major George A. Hilton to speak in, it may be an interesting mathematical question to determine how much better the Bellefonte court house is than the one in Huntingdon.

—Those pears in Dr. A. Hibler's yard continue to develop in size and weight—so much, indeed, that the trees will hold them no longer. Then they find their way into the Doctor's coat pockets, and he permits his friends to feast their—eyes—on the tempting fruit.

—Information is wanted of Mrs. Ellen Savina Yingling, whose maiden name was Longwell. She is a widow of about 63 years of age. She has fallen heir to property. Any information of her whereabouts will be suitably rewarded if sent to H. P. Ludwick, Manor Station, Pa.

—We are informed that the honor of lighting the fires in the furnace at the glass works, on Monday afternoon, was conferred on Mrs. John Ardell, Jr., and Mrs. W. R. Teller. Mrs. Ardell applied the match at one part of the furnace while Mrs. Teller did the same at the opposite part.

—There having been some discussion as to whether or not Major Geo. A. Hilton was admitted to the Court house in Huntingdon and Lewistown, we are assured by him that on August 29 he spoke in the Court House at Huntingdon and on the 17th of September he spoke in the Court House at Lewistown.

—on Saturday tarrying at the Bush House were G. W. Wallis, of Lewisburg; Dr. M. Stewart, Snow Shoe; Hugh Young, U. S. Bank Examiner, Tioga Co.; Harvey Jones, Esq., and wife, Philadelphia; J. G. Hartswick, of Clearfield; W. R. Perry, of Boston; Prof. Atherton, of State College; Jas. L. Hamill, of Lemont.

—We had the pleasure of listening to Major Geo. A. Hilton in Y. M. C. A. hall on Sunday afternoon and were very much pleased with him. He is so fearless and straightforward in his expressions of opinions, and so magnificently eloquent and impressive in his speech as to hold the close attention of all. By all means hear him during the time he is in Bellefonte.

—We are pleased to learn that a Sunday School was organized for the first time, in Crider's School house at Glenn Harris yesterday forenoon during a pouring rain, with a full corps of officers and hopeful material for teachers and scholars. Notwithstanding the storm, the school room was well filled, and every thing was done in manifest harmony with most encouraging prospects.

—A change occurred in the schedule of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad and the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe Branch, Monday morning. The only change in the former which affects Bellefonte is the arrival and departure of the express train west. It formerly arrived at 5:40 a. m and now arrives at 10:35 a. m. On the Snow Shoe Branch the train will leave at 8:50 a. m. and return at 6:00 p. m.

A Wedding in Northumberland.

The Public Press, of Northumberland, contains quite an extended description of a recent social event which occurred in that quiet town, in which at least one of the principals was a lady well known in Bellefonte and several of the assistants were from among the young people of this place. It was the wedding of Mr. Wm. P. Leisenring and Miss Bertha Merrick Kapp, both of Northumberlend, the bride being the fifth daughter of Mr. A. E. Kapp, and frequently having visited at the home of Mr. John P. Harris on Linn street. It occurred on the 30th of September in St. Mark's Episcopal church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Charles Morrison, of Sunbury, assisted by Rev. C. G. Adams, of South Port, Conn.

In looking at the published account we notice that Wilbur Harris and George Johnston, of Bellefonte, were two of the four ushers. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Kapp (sister of the bride), Miss Emily Harris, of this place, and Misses Jennie Priestley and Gertrude Hunsinger. Each maid was dressed in cream crape cloth, trimmed with lace and swansdown and carried a basket of exquisite flowers. Among the four groomsmen were our young friend, J. Cooper Dare, and H. P. Harris. The bride's charming attire was of cream ottoman silk and brocade, trimmed with lace and orange blossoms. The veil was slightly raised from the head by a wreath of the same. A basket of choice white flowers hung gracefully from her arm. The reception was held in their own new house which is handsomely furnished. They departed on the 2 o'clock a. m. train for a tour of the large cities.

A Review of Sunday.

The services of Sunday, so far as we have learned them, were as follows:

In the Episcopal church the rector preached in the morning from St. John 18:36, "My kingdom is not of this world" In the evening he discoursed on the parable of the "Prodigal Son," as given in the Gospel according to St. Luke.

The temperance services were: a children's meeting at 3 o'clock in the Presbyterian chapel, a temperance service at 4 o'clock in Y. M. C. A. hall, conducted by Col. D. S. Keller and addressed by Major Geo. A. Hilton, and a meeting in Humes Hall in the evening.

Rev. Wm. Laurie preached in the Methodist church in the morning from Revelations 21:7, and Rev. M. K. Foster delivered the evening sermon from II Timothy 2:5.

The excellent pastor of the Methodist church preached in the Presbyterian church in the morning from John 14:2, and Rev. William Laurie delivered the evening sermon from Matthew 7:13 and 14.

—"Home Guard," whose cigarette communication appeared in our Saturday's issue, left home on Saturday evening for Sunday work, stopping over night with a family of eleven members, two sons past twenty, and not one of the eleven has ever yet used intoxicating liquors as a beverage or tobacco in any form for indulgence. They claim no credit for this abstinence, deserving none. At the same time they do most heartily advise all others to follow their example, except in the case of tobacco for old people who have not much else to do or much else that is temporal to enjoy, and others who, suffering from asthma and the like, may be relieved by its use. Before leaving the family, he enrolled all of its members among the Home Guards and is permitted to give us the name of the Pater Familias—Mr. Morgan Lucas, living on Wallace Run, midway between Snow Shoe Intersection and Glenn Harris.

—We are of opinion that when Messrs. Robert and George Valentine have those electric lights shining in front of their houses the effect is splendid, and we feel very grateful when we pass along at night. Especially is this so when both of the two lights in front of Mr. George Valentine's house are illuminated. But when we pass along and find none of them lighted our feelings can hardly be described. "Let your lights shine."

—Large sweet pumpkins are the greatest garden products this year and have grown to a size which one can hardly believe without seeing them. We hear of one cultivated by a Mr. Schroyer, of near Milesburg, which, it is believed, will tip the scales at almost 200 pounds, and it is still growing. All the pumpkins seen in the stores are large and suggest endless quantities of pumpkin pie.

—The Col. James Milliken, who is to bring an opera troupe to this place soon, is not our James Milliken, sometimes designated by his friends as Colonel.

—It is coming. The date is not definitely known, but it will probably be early in November. By "it" we mean Milliken's Operatic Comedy Company, which will give one performance in Bellefonte for the benefit of Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R. The performance will be in Humes' Hall. Col. James Milliken, who is now manager of an excellent comic opera company, which is filling an engagement in one of the largest theatres in New York City, is a native of Hollidaysburg. He has traveled in Egypt and other lands. He was once commander of the Fifth Regiment, N. G., and has an especially warm feeling for the soldiers. That is what induces him to bring his company of artists, every one of whom is a principal, to Bellefonte. The operatic selections will be from "Madame Boniface," "Niniche" and "The King of Diamonds." All of these are new operas, and "Niniche" is the famous Madam Judic's great piece. The music is bright while the dialogue sparkles like a glass of champaign. The leading lady is "Lucette," an excellent lithograph portrait of whom may be seen in Louis Doll's shoe store window and of whom we shall tell in a future issue.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Richard Rimmer, which occurred on Sunday afternoon, was attended by many people and the services were impressive. At 3 30 o'clock in the afternoon services were held at the house and at 4 o'clock solemn services were held in the Catholic church of which deceased was a member. The pall bearers were twelve in number, six of whom represented the Window glass workers and six represented the Knights of Labor Lodge, No 2333. The first six were Messrs. James Conroy, Richard Winner, Simon Spriggs, Isaiah Clark William Fees, Jr., and Frank Wescott. We did not obtain the names of the other pall bearers. The deceased lady was 22 years of age. She was held in high esteem by those who knew her and her death is the source of universal regret as it temporarily severs attachments of the most affectionate and endearing nature. Those who remain may be gladdened by the hope that they will be reunited in the other world.

—The change of schedule on both the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont and Bald Eagle Valley railroads is a great improvement. For instance, the change of the barbarously early 5.45 a. m train from Lock Haven to 10.35 a. m. is a vast improvement and enables that train to make connection with the 10.30 a. m. train from Montandon. We believe such a change will benefit the railroad company. Now, if such a change can be made as will enable passengers from Snow Shoe to come to Bellefonte and depart on the same day, the railroad company will please the people of both places and may benefit themselves. Bellefonte merchants are really selling goods cheaper now than ever before, although they do not seem to be eager to announce that fact to the public, and the people from all directions cannot do better than to come here to buy.

—The meeting of the borough council on Monday evening was brief, because there did not seem to be much important business on hand. President Crider was present and rapidly called for the reading of the minutes and for the reports of committees. The Water committee report showed that all the pipe has been laid that was authorized by council and everybody within the water limits is abundantly supplied with the refreshing liquid. The consumption in September was 2,000,000 gallons less than during the summer months. Market committee reported $9.70 receipts. A petition having been received from citizens of Curtin street for more light at the first alley west of Allegheny street, L. T. Munson moved that the street committee be directed to put a suitable light there. Agreed to.

—Bellefonte having less than 4,000 population according to the census of '80, will not have the advantage of the immediate letter delivery system which began on the 1st of the month. But the next census will establish her title to it, if indeed we cannot prove that Bellefonte has 4,000 population before the census is taken again. We believe that there are now 4,000 people within the limits of the borough.

—There was a double wedding in the Episcopal church, Lock Haven, on Thursday afternoon, Miss Annie M. Kintzing was married to Henry S. Heisler, of Colorado, in which State they will reside. At the same time and place, Miss F. S. Kintzing, sister of the lady named above, was married to Frank L. Whittaker, of Lock Haven.

—We regret to learn of the death, on Tuesday, of little Clara Kohlbecker, of Central City, near Milesburg. She died that morning at 9:50 o'clock, aged 1 year and 11 months. The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. We extend our sympathy to the afflicted relatives.

—A congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church, Altoona, held on Saturday, united in a call to Rev. J. I Blackburn, of Marysville, Westmoreland county, Pa.

—Mrs. Richard Houp presented to her husband, last Monday, a 14-lb. baby boy. They say Mr. Houp feels as happy over the event as if he was worth a million.

Personal Pencilings.

Miss Candor, of Lock Haven, is a guest of Minnie Garman.

Mr. Wilbur Harris is at home again after a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. T. R. Reynolds was in Williamsport on Friday on business.

J. G. Heberling, of Pine Grove spent Tuesday in the county town.

Mr. Frank Grice is at home again after a few days sojourn in the city.

Miss Emma Tomlinson, of Millheim, is visiting relatives in Harrisburg.

Calvin Runkle, of Spring Mills, has gone to Philadelphia to read medicine.

Judge A. O. Furst was a passenger on the east bound train Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Woods, of Spring Mills, is so ill that her friends are much alarmed about her.

Miss Reynolds, of Lancaster, has been a guest at Major Reynolds' residence this week.

Miss Sallie Dawson departed Monday afternoon for a visit among friends in Tyrone.

Mrs. A. B. Weaver, of Clearfield, is visiting at the residence of her parents in this place.

—Mr. James McClain is anxiously waiting for somebody to apply for a marriage license.

J. M. Keichline, Esq., is erecting a dwelling house on the eastern part of Bishop street.

Durbin S. Gray, Esq., is reported to be quite ill in Philadelphia. We hope it is but temporary.

Mr. Geo. L. Potter and family are at home again after two weeks absence in New York State.

Mr. W. L. Malin is off on a trip to Philadelphia, to remain until the latter part of next week.

Mr. Ward Rishel, of Milesburg, son of John Rishel, of Centre Hall, is very ill with typhoid fever.

S. S. Blair, Esq., superintendent of the Bald Eagle Valley R. R., was in Bellefonte Monday morning.

Miss Mary Jenkins, of Milton, is a guest at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Jenkins, on Linn Street.

Col. Jacob Wolf, of Aaronsburg, is seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Deininger, at Millheim.

Little Eddie Harris, son of John P. Harris, who was brought home ill from Philadelphia, is rapidly recovering.

Francis Speer and Charley Pierce went to the country recently, gunning for sweet cider or some other similar game.

Mr. and Mrs. Love of Tyrone, are enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Love, at their residence on Linn St.

Mr. William E. Crust, of Fillmore, was a welcome caller at the REPUBLICAN office on Thursday. Hope he will come again

Miss Julia Oppenheimer, of Pottsville, after spending a few days at the home of B. C. Lyon, Esq., on Linn St., departed Tuesday.

Mr. C. E. Schaeffer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., came home on Wednesday evening, having been absent about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson, of Atlantic City, are spending a few days at the home of Mr. James Rankin, on Thomas Street.

The Altoona papers record the presof Mr. Joe Furey in that city Tuesday evening. Barnum's circus was there at the same time.

Mrs. Eckley and daughter, of Hereford, England, are guests at the home of T. P. Rynder, of Milesburg. They are relatives of Mrs. Rynder.

Mr. Wm. Markle, one of the most agreeable young gentlemen in Bellefonte, favored the REPUBLICAN sanctum with his presence a few minutes Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Bailey, of Williamsport, a prominent official in the telephone company, accompanied by his wife, spent Tuesday night in Bellefonte, departing next morning.

Mr. Ed. Richards came home on Monday from Philadelphia, where he spent a week or ten days inspecting the State fair and having a pleasant time generally.

Misses Sallie Dawson and Effa Hamilton, two bright and fascinating young ladies of this place, are visiting friends in Middlesex, Mercer county, and also at Franklin and Pittsburg.

Mr. Henry Albertson, city clerk of Atlantic City, N. J., and his lady, formerly Amanda Furey, who have been spending a few days in Bellefonte, took their departure on Tuesday for Watkins Glen and thence to their home.

David F. Fortney, Esq., of Bellefonte, who came to the city yesterday on legal business reported elsewhere, paid his respects at this office. Mr. Fortney is a pleasant gentleman, and has the reputation of being one of Centre county's most brilliant lawyers.—Altoona Times of the 1st.

Miss Joe Shrom, of this city, is visiting friends in Pottstown, Pa. As Pottstown is a very attractive place it is probable her visit will be an extended one. During her absence she will be greatly missed in the M. E. church and Sunday-school, where she has served very faithfully as organist. We hope her visit will be a pleasant one.

Personal Pencilings.

Edmund Blanchard, Esq., is in Washington.

Mr. Ezra Fisher, of Milesburg, was so kind as to occupy a seat in the business office of this paper on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Fisher is a first class farmer and business man who makes the world better by his presence in it.

Messrs. Daniel Garman and John Bartruff went to Philipsburg Tuesday and remained to look at the white elephant in Barnum's show next day, believing that the interests of science require them to make a thorough examination of this Royal fraud.

It is said that Irv. Speer and P. Meek, Jr., were in Philipsburg yesterday. Each of them had a pass, which paid their car fare, but when it is well known that they had only 45 cents change between them, we'd like to know how they expected to see the inside of Barnum's show.

Three Items from Baileyville.

October 3, 1885.

Mr. Richard Irvin is at present writing confined to bed with a stroke of paralysis, which has made his right arm helpless and paralyzed his tongue. We hope to hear of his entire recovery.

There has been quite a boom in the matrimonial market the last few months. In the vicinity of our small town we know of four marriages within the above mentioned time, the last on the list being Mr. Heberling to Miss Mary Robinson. We wish them all happy married lives.

The night blooming cereus, of which mention was made last fall about this time, again bloomed on the 29th ult., at the residence of Mr. Robert Glenn. It had bloomed about one month previous to this time, but, not being present, we could not speak of it particularly. The bud began to open about 7 o'clock p. m., and continued until 10 o'clock when it had developed into a large blossom, about 11½ inches in diameter. It was a magnificent flower. There were about fifty persons present and the evening passed pleasantly. To a true lover of flowers this is a most interesting sight and the most indifferent person cannot but be interested.

—Mrs. Keelan, a woman living in Cambria Borough, relates a story which, if true, certainly gives reason for further investigation as to the guilt or innocence of Curtin McClain, who is under sentence of death for the murder of Wm. Smearman. She relates that at the time of the murder a man named Paddy Marron boarded at her house, although she does not know where he is at present. Marron told her that while he was employed at a furnace near the scene of the murder, on the morning after the crime was committed, an acquaintance of his surprised him by crawling out from under the station building and making a confession that he had killed Billy Smearman. He asked Marron what to do and was told to leave as soon as possible. Marron mentioned the name of the self-confessed murderer, but Mrs. Keelan has forgotten it. The whereabouts of neither Marron or his friend is known.

Death of Mrs. Philip Collins.

Many people of this place who have met and formed the acquaintance of Mrs. Margaret Collins, wife of Philip Collins, Esq., the railroad contractor, will be pained to learn of her death which occurred on Sunday last in Philadelphia. The deceased lady was the daughter of Hon. Philip Noon, of Ebensburg, Cambria county. She was a devout member of the Catholic church. Her remains were conveyed to Ebensburg, where the interment will take place Wednesday morning.

—The North, Central and South American Exposition will begin in New Orleans on the 10th of November. It will be, in a certain sense, a continuation of last year's world's exposition, the displays not being divided among so many countries, but being more extensive from the three Americas, between which nations it is designed to form a closer union.

—A. G. Curtin, Jr., is erecting a very handsome iron fence in front of his Queen Anna cottage. It will correspond in neatness and taste with the house and its surroundings.

MARRIED.
